A Float to the Finish During SCOPE Week
By Jean Perry

The highlight of SCOPE week for seventh grade students of Old Rochester Regional is the annual cardboard boat race when groups of students have a blast designing and building their boats of cardboard and duct tape to race on the open waters off Mattapoisett Harbor. The week of activities include field trips and creative learning opportunities outside the classroom.

SCOPE stands for Student Centered Opportunity for Personal Enhancement and has taken place during the same week as Survival for over 40 years. It’s a junior high red team/blue team teacher collaboration to provide their students with outside-the-classroom learning opportunities – ones to help them learn about themselves and each other.

Kathryn Gauvin, a grade 7 teacher at ORR Junior High, helped facilitate the boat race event on Wednesday, June 5, at the Mattapoisett YMCA shoreline.

“It’s the highlight of SCOPE Week, definitely” she said. “The kids are creative. They do their own research, create their own design. … Some do focus on and get more involved in the creative side of the project instead of the design side,” she said moments after one of the more elaborately designed boats capsized immediately upon boarding.

As the students line up their boats along the beach waiting for their boat to move up in the line, watercrafts are reinforced by duct tape and more duct tape – miles and miles of duct tape of all colors and textures. Lizzy Pinzino and Chase Jackson were busy reinforcing their boat, “The Real Mauna Loa,” built by Pinzino, Jackson, and Aspen Barratt.

“Oh my God, the water’s cold! I don’t want to get wet!” shrieked Pinzino, her toes just slightly submerged in the water.

“This is surely the coldest and the windiest [boat race] day we’ve ever had,” said Gauvin.

Students struggled against the wind that sometimes sent them too far off from the floating marker where they are supposed to turn back. At one point the floating marker even floated away.

One after the other, the boats sailed or sank. It was apparent that the more simple the engineering, the better it floats. But that didn’t stop some kids from riding the waves of creativity, like the creators of an elaborate pirate ship sailed by Simon DeRosa and Nicholas Miedema who ended up ‘shipwrecked’ on the shore.

“Lack of being able to steer,” Miedema stated as his reason for coming up short in the race. The wind driven current just blew them off course.

Other races turned into a couple rounds of “bumper boats” as grade 7 social science teacher Dan McEvoy described it. And seventh-grade social science teacher Justin Calderone who treaded water the entire time in his orange blaze shirt and endured the cold like a champion was there to keep the ships straight and above water as best he could. Some boats at first glance looked like they wouldn’t stand a chance of floating, at least for very long, but every now and then the students seemed to defy the laws of the natural world.

“I guess I don’t understand science,” said McEvoy, in charge of keeping time of each race, “because the ones I thought were gonna sink don’t!”

Gauvin values SCOPE Week for its opportunity to get students and families and educators all together at one place for a really fun event.

“We just don’t have enough days in the year when we can share an experience like this with each other and with the community,” said Gauvin. “I look at today and feel very fortunate.”

Parents Survive Survival Week
By Jean Perry

It’s a right of passage for parents as much as it is for Old Rochester Regional Junior High students – Survival week.

Roughly half the seventh graders at ORR choose to hike to the hills of western Massachusetts and participate in Survival week, a one-week outdoors hiking and camping experience that has been one of the staple life experiences of many a Tri-Town 13-year-old. It’s a week without phones, Internet, TV, fast food, iced coffee, a shower, and, most importantly of all, Mom and Dad.

Parents, siblings, and family pets waited anxiously for the telltale sirens that signal the three busses full of ‘survivors’ are on their way down Route 6 accompanied by Tri-Town police cruisers. There were balloons, homemade signs, streamers, trays of sweet ice-cold coffee from Dunkin, and hundreds of iPhones pointed in the general direction of the main entrance of the Old Rochester Regional campus. It was Sunday, June 9, the final day of Survival Week and parents and caregivers were eager to hug their overtired, hungry, sweaty children after an anguishing week of concern, worry, and relative peace and quiet.

As the teens poured out of the busses and into the adoring crowd, there were mad dashes, smiles, some tears, and snacks. Plenty of snacks.

The weather in the Northfield area was fine, reported Survival leader Robert Nordahl, a Rochester police officer.

“There were a couple trips to the emergency room, nothing serious,” said Nordahl. “There were no serious injuries – it’s normal to have a few trips to the ER for minor [injuries].”

Survival was started in 1973, and its legacy is an experience for all Old Rochester seventh-graders to rise to the task, surpass their expectations of their own abilities, form strong and lasting friendships, create memories to last a lifetime, and make it home again as an ORR ‘survivor.’

Sunken Treasure and the Man Who Found It
By Marilou Newell

Off the coastline of Colombia near Cartagena rests a vessel that at least two nations are currently claiming as their own. The world will one day see the vast riches that were headed for Spain in May of 1708. Until then, Columbia is claiming the ship and its precious cargo, while Spain claims equally that it is their property.
because it is a Spanish ship, regardless of where it sunk. And make no mistake, it is indeed a legal battle given that the pot of gold could be as much as $17 billion, the biggest shipwreck to date.

There is one institution, however, that is claiming only one thing and that is that they found the ship. Dr. Jeff Kaeli of the Woods Hole Oceanographic (WHO) Institute, a member of the team sent to the suspected site of the shipwreck back in 2015, told his story to an interested and technically engaged audience on June 7 at the Marion Natural History Museum.

Kaeli’s presentation focused on the technology employed by the WHO team to not only locate the ship in the suspected location, but to document conclusively that it was the San Jose. To do that, the engineering scientist explained in detail the advanced sonar equipment that was used and the results it achieved.

After telling his audience a brief history of the ship itself, he told of how the Spanish government mined riches found in Peru such as gold, silver, and emeralds. The ship was returning to Spain filled to capacity. However, a flotilla of English warships (think the Spanish Succession) attacked the ship, sinking it almost immediately. Due to the sudden sinking, none of the riches aboard the San Jose were salvaged. All of the nearly 600 crew members were lost along with precious gems and ores and some 62 bronze cannons. It would be the cannons that would eventually give up the location of the downed treasure ship.

Fast forward to the 21st century, the WHO team launched an autonomous underwater vehicle or AUV called REMUS. On deck, research assistants maneuvered the device across the seafloor using sonar soundings that would eventually be developed into visual images.

Enter Kaeli whose primary job was to study vast amounts of data and turn that data into something even the average human being could understand - a picture.

Day after day the REMUS navigated across the ocean floor in a grid pattern of overlapping soundings. Day after day Kaeli would decode the data.

Kaeli explained that photographic imagery would not have worked underwater given that water reflects light and the thickness of particles in the ocean also reflected light, thus making it impossible to capture images. By using sonar whose soundings can be measured and then layered using advanced computer technology into images, they could identify items on the ocean’s bottom.

There came a day when Kaeli’s supervisor asked him for analysis of the latest data collected. As he performed his magic of turning data into images, Kaeli slowly realized he was looking at a cannon.

“I stitched the images together like a photo mosaic building up the image layer by layer,” he explained. Then the ‘aha’ moment came. “I thought, ‘I’m the only person in the world that knows we found the shipwreck!”

Kaeli and the other members of the WHO team are pure scientists, and while he would love to own one of the many intact china teacups that carpet the wreckage, he is satisfied to merely look at the images, a rich accomplishment in and of themselves.

Of the cannon images, Kaeli is tickled to look at them.

“In every single one there is that crab hanging off the end,” he shared with chuckle.

As for the international battle of who owns the wreck and its estimated billions in treasure, well, that clearly doesn’t measure up to the experience Kaeli can enjoy for the rest of his life.

“For me, just being there was cool and using technology to find things.” Spoken like a true scientist.

The Marion Natural History Museum is a tiny educational gem that has been expanding young minds in big ways since it was gifted to the town by Elizabeth Taber in the late 1800’s.

For the past 30 years the current museum has been under the direction of Elizabeth Leidhold. Leidhold, along with her small but dedicated team, provides a place for children to study the natural world from microscopic organisms to the very oceans themselves. There are year-round programs as well as summer day camp experiences. To learn more about the museum and its programs visit www.marionmuseum.org.
The museum also hosts special presentations and talks such as this one throughout the year.

Shady Updates for Some Solar Farms
Rochester Planning Board
By Jean Perry

The Rochester Planning Board finished quickly with its business on the June 11 agenda with the continuation of two public hearings and the closing of one uncomplicated application, leaving plenty of time for some solar project updates needing attention.

After giving Town Planner Steve Starrett some flak for vouchers seeking reimbursement for an over $200 phone charger and $40 in mileage reimbursement, the board heard Starrett’s update on some solar projects in town that have seen sunnier days.

It was all in good fun until Johnson referred to Starrett as the “current town planner,” which Starrett and the board laughed off.

The contractors of the Mendell Road solar farm have left the site, Starrett said, “But they’re not finished yet.”

Borrego Solar System employee Steve Long assured Starrett that he would come to the site personally to make sure the remaining finishing touches to the landscape are completed. There is still some seeding to be done, but the landscaping is coming along, said Starrett.

Another issue at the site is the responsibility of Eversource, Starrett stated. The 80-foot apron at the curb has been changed to a straight drive, but the work must wait for Eversource to be completed.

“We’re waiting for Eversource,” said Starrett. “We don’t have any control over it.”

Starrett said Borrego is looking into a possible third solar project in Rochester on Walnut Plain Road. A possible project on Rounseville Road has been held up, Starrett said.

“We will see the new project on Walnut Plain before we even see that,” said Starrett. “That one may not even happen.”

Over at the solar farm on Snipatuit Road owned by IGS, formerly owned by Melink, some shrubs that are part of the landscape plan have died from an apparent disease, Starrett said.

“So they’ll have to deal with that,” said Starrett. At the solar farm on 268 Mattapoisett Road, the grass isn’t any greener.

“Apparently, their new maintenance people went in and sprayed Roundup (herbicide) on … every single row of panels and within two or three days killed everything and killed the soil,” said Starrett. “It’s a huge error.”

The board was concerned since the use of chemicals and herbicides is prohibited in the written decision.

Planning Board Chairman Arnie Johnson said he attended a site visit and said, “We gave them ten days to remediate and put grass in … or we’re gonna reopen the hearing and possibly revoke their permit.”

Starrett said the multi-acre site would have to be scraped and hydro-seeded and completely re-done.

“Every row in the entire project,” he said. “It was looking good: it’s too bad.”

In other business, the board closed the public hearing for a special permit for a back lot filed by Mark and Susan Trahan of 243 Mattapoisett Road.

“I think it looks pretty straightforward,” Johnson said.

Town counsel will prepare a draft decision for the board to consider at the next meeting.

The public hearing for the Site Plan Review for Sophia Darras care of Patricia McArdle, Rounseville Road, was continued until June 11 at the applicant’s request.

The public hearing for REpurpose Properties, LLC was continued until June 11 as well, as this and the prior application is running in tandem. REpurpose is seeking to construct an age-restricted residential development in the vacant land beside Plumb Corner.

The next meeting of the Rochester Planning Board is scheduled for June 25 at 7:00 pm at the Rochester Town Hall.
Library Roof Repairs Prove More Extensive

Marion Finance Committee

By Jean Perry

The roof repair work at the Taber Library went a bit over budget, resulting in the Marion Finance Committee approving a Reserve Fund transfer for $16,000 to cover the excess cost.

Finance Director Judy Mooney reported that while Facilities Director Shaun Cormier and his employees were on the roof repairing the cupola and replacing the shingles, it was discovered that the entire roof would need re-sheathing.

Some sheathing was included in the original cost of the project, “but not the entire roof,” said Mooney, “and that’s what it needed.”

The town had to act quickly, added Mooney, because workers were already up on the roof and in the middle of the job when the unexpected discovery of the rotting sheathing was discovered.

The project is still a frugal one, Mooney said, since town staff within the Facilities Department is performing most of the labor.

“They are actually saving almost $10,000 just by doing it in-house,” said Mooney. “It’s $16,000 – we know it’s a lot. All of this will be enough in the reserve – we will wipe out the reserve, but we don’t see anything else out there.”

The Finance Committee also approved a number of other Reserve Fund transfers, including one for $7,200 for computer and software upgrades in the Finance Office, and $55,000 for sewer matters related to the EPA administrative consent order.

“Whatever we don’t use … flows right back into the retained earnings in the sewer,” said Mooney.

The Marion Finance Committee has no plan to meet again until August.

The Miraculous Octopus

By George B. Emmons

In this modern day and age of natural history, human beings are now discovering advanced miraculous phenomena about the previously esoteric octopus. Although oceans cover about 71 percent of the earth, it seems that human beings have barely scratched the surface of the immense shallow Atlantic continental shelf of North America, just beyond the south coast of Buzzards Bay. Exploration becomes a trip back in time through a cloudy twilight time zone of almost 3 billion years of evolution. Beneath the surface, the speed of sound is more than five times faster than through the air, the wrecks of ancient ships seem to last forever, and the evolution of species is almost beyond chronological measurement.

Ancient Greek seafaring mariners in 1500 B.C. were known to fear the octopus as a terrifying denizen of the deep depicted in artwork and designs of the period and portrayed as climbing aboard ships to threaten fishermen. Today, the Atlantic octopus inhabits the relatively recluse rocky ledges and reefs of protruding coastlines, as well as shallow tidal pools of the Southcoast.

Occasionally New Bedford scallop dredgers come back into port with one on board, and bottom fishermen have told of pulling one up, foaming from the mouth with a spray of ink as a defensive reaction to a predator. A secretive dweller, it keeps a very low profile minding its own business with very little hostility to shoreline or boating human activity.

My illustration shows a mother octopus turning bright red to face off an eel threatening its young. I have shown its extended arms are covered with white circular adhesive discs to stabilize itself attached to an object or a predator such as an eel. Then it can draw it in closer by muscular contraction. It may also inflict a bite with a razor-sharp blade over its mouth, inflicting an infection that ultimately dissolves its victim.

Recent research and periodicals about the octopus seem to offer an amazing number of possible medical offerings for human use. Specifically is the octopus’ ability of taste through the discs, and an almost superhuman intelligent communication through its behavioral nervous system. They can make use of 168 kinds of sensory awareness cells that make connections of sensitivity for communication. (Humans have 58).

The octopus has three hearts – one systematic to circulate blood through the body, and the other two to pump blood through the gills for breathing. They swim by expelling a jet of water through the mantle siphon into the sea. They have also developed an advanced degree of intelligence with remarkable problem solving ability and primitive tool-using skills. Because of reactive mobility of adaption to changing conditions and locations, they might even be humorously written up as possessing the brainpower of intelligent extraterrestrials.

In captivity they seem to relate to their aquarium keepers. They also demonstrate a capacity to use tools to unscrew a bottle cap or unlock the latch of the fence of their pool to be able to move out of sight.

The reputation of the octopus was previously described as metaphysical, by separating fact from mythical fiction, has now surfaced as a concrete species of natural phenomenon. It is verified as a living specimen of environmental awareness and communication. Thank you for joining me in this subterranean literary adventure in natural history along the shoreline of Buzzards Bay.

King Will Not Seek Reappointment
Mattapoisett Conservation Commission
By Marilou Newell

On June 10 as the Mattapoisett Conservation Commission prepared to open their meeting, Chairman Mike King, in an aside to his fellow board members, said that this was his second to last meeting. King said that his appointment to the commission was ending on July 1 when the new fiscal year began and that he had not heard anything from the selectmen regarding reappointment.

Later in the evening, just before adjournment, The Wanderer asked King if he would be approaching the selectmen to seek reappointment. He replied, “No.” King has served on the commission since 2012.

The rest of the evening was spent handling a number of Requests for Determination of Applicability (RDA) and Notice of Intent (NOI) Filings.

The most complex hearing was a filing by Ryan Potter of 7 Melissa Ann Lane whose RDA request for the installation of a 27-foot above ground pool uncovered unpermitted activities.

The Potters had used a space on their property as a dumping area for grass clippings and stones they moved from an area where a goat pen and shed had been constructed. Conservation Agent Elizabeth Leidhold showed Potter on a drawing submitted by the previous owner what had, in fact, been permitted on the property.

The issue for the Potters and the commission was jurisdictional wetlands and buffer zones that had been disturbed by unpermitted activities and that an abutter had questioned the filling in of wetlands and a vernal pool. Leidhold confirmed the existence of the pool.

Abutter Carol Larson, 12 Bayberry Lane, complained that Potter had been filling in wetlands on his property, and although she had no complaint with the proposed pool construction, the threat to the vernal pool was troubling.

King agreed that some activities on the property had disturbed resource areas but thought that the pool could be permitted given it was not within those areas. He suggested, and Leidhold agreed, that action was necessary to remediate buffer zones and protect the pool in question.

Potter was granted a Negative 3 determination for the pool, but was instructed to file an after-the-fact RDA so the disturbed resource areas could be addressed and corrected no later than September 1.

There was also a bit of confusion when Scott Snow’s continued hearing for an NOI filing for a proposed subdivision located off Prospect Road reopened. Prime Engineering’s Richard Rheaume who has represented Snow and property owners David and Cheryl Morey and Joanne Garfield throughout the nearly yearlong process approached the commissioners.

King addressed Rheaume saying, “We received a note from the Planning Board. … There are still a couple of items to be cleared up.” He continued, “You are free to present whatever you want but until they sign-off, we aren’t going to approve…”

Rheaume responded, “They (the Planning Board) said they wouldn’t approve without you!” He then pointed out on the plan of record those items the Planning Board had wanted spelled out on the plans. King noted the seven waivers that were granted.

After further review, King said, “I can’t see anything ConCom-related that would stop approval.” He then closed the public hearing.

The commission issued an Order of Conditions, which included an operation and maintenance plan for stormwater features that the homeowners association would be responsible for, and that the project could not commence until the Planning Board gave their final decision.

In other business, David and Jennifer Kaiser, 54 Ocean Drive, received a Negative 3 decision for the construction of a two-car garage and two-story addition; Alyssa Kratochvil, 123 North Street received a Negative 3 decision for the construction of an above ground pool.

Wetlands delineation for property located off Park Lane and owned by Andre Rieksts and Scott and Margo Wilson-Atkinson was accepted with the caveat that other wetlands and jurisdictional areas may be uncovered at a future date. The RDA filing was given a Positive 2A decision.

The following cases were continued until June
Schools Reflect on First Year of 5-Year Plan

Joint meeting of the school committees

By Jean Perry

Superintendent Doug White gave a mid-cycle review of the Tri-Town schools’ five-year strategic plan, summarizing all that has occurred according to the plan’s timeline and what is still to come as year two starts in September.

On June 4, White went over each of the goals of the strategic plan – 21st century learning, social-emotional learning, and global citizenship, as well as the areas identified for exploration and implementation under each theme across the four school districts addressed in each school’s two-year plan to help meet those goals.

The aim is to achieve consistency in these areas across the four districts.

In 21st century learning, the focus is on the four Cs – collaboration, creativity, communication, and critical thinking – and providing at least one opportunity for student growth within each C.

During this first year, educators and administrators were tasked with identifying the gaps in the current state of the four Cs in each school and to find ways of implementing project-based learning opportunities to increase student engagement and rigor in all subjects.

“This has been an opportunity for us to really focus in on these three particular areas and really make sure that we’re going to be doing them well, and it’s really going to affect the learning that’s going to take place in our schools and the development of skills that will allow... our students to be 21st century learners,” White said.

Project-based learning is at the core of each goal of the strategic plan as schools strive to imbed at least two project-based learning opportunities each year.

In social-emotional learning, the focus is on relationships and the student as an individual “as they build a sense of belonging and engagement,” said White. The Responsive Classroom approach, which focuses on the link between social-emotional learning and academic success, has been implemented in grades K through 8 and imbedded into the classroom. Training opportunities are available for new staff and ongoing monitoring of the success of the approach to identify areas where adjustments might be needed year after year.

Under social-emotional, behavior has been an area of focus with administrative teams assessing data and looking for patterns and trends and ways to address them.

“We want to move away from the days of suspension and detention and look more about ‘restorative justice’ and look for ways the students are going to benefit and learn from the behaviors they have done,” said White.

Restorative justice is a behavioral approach that embraces mediation and agreement between students rather than punishment.

Safety in school buildings is also worked on under social-emotional as administrative staff, educators, and local law enforcement work to make students feel more secure in their learning environments.

Under global citizenship, the school districts hope to develop students’ awareness of diversity in culture and religion and open the dialog about these subjects to encourage respect and appreciation on multiculturalism both locally and abroad.

Staff is receiving racial bias training and sensitivity training, White said, “as a result of some things that have happened at the high school.”

The “big one” for the districts, White said, is the eventual alignment of a social studies curriculum across the board, and a civics course for high school freshmen is under development that will eventually be woven into the younger grades. Cultural proficiency, global themes, and civics will be introduced through project-based learning experiences moving forward, White said.

“It can’t be understated how this carries through in every school … and it has been very well implemented,” said Old Rochester Regional School Committee member James Muse.

The school committees will hold another joint meeting on September 26 at 6:30 pm in the junior high media room.

Harding Family Donates Playground ‘Whirl’

Rochester School Committee

By Jean Perry

The Rochester School Committee on June 6 graciously accepted the donation of a playground whirl presented by the Harding family on behalf of their daughter, Chloe Harding.

Chloe, a Rochester Memorial School second-grader, passed away on February 17 after a long and courageous battle with cancer.

Chloe’s mother, Lindsay, formally presented the donation to the committee, but the plan has been in the works for some time now.

“In February, we lost Chloe to cancer. One of her favorite things was school,” said Harding. “One of our thoughts when we asked for donations at the time of her funeral,” Harding said, was an addition to the playground.

The whirl has come a long way, as Harding described the spinning, child-propelled ride that prior generations likely associate with fun, dizziness, and their first introduction to centrifugal force-related injury. Now, she said, the playground piece is regulated and can only reach a maximum of 14 revolutions per minute.
The age group of the ride is 5-12, and since the younger children’s playground already offers so much, the whirl will be placed closer to the older children’s playground.

The Harding family will fund the entire cost of the project, including the playground-grade mulch. Harding has already worked closely with Principal Derek Medeiros and Facilities Director Gene Jones on the logistics and regulations, and Medeiros said that since updated ADA laws now require paths leading to each piece of playground structure, Highway Department workers have volunteered to assist in creating the paths.

“Not only was that a great addition to our playground, but it really exemplified her and the fun that she loved to have out there on that structure,” said Medeiros.

“Chloe was such an important member of the school here,” said Rochester School Committee Chairman Sharon Hartley. “That’s a beautiful way of keeping her memory here and keeping her here. A very generous and very loving thing to do – thank you."

Medeiros said the whirl and the pathways should be completed by the fall.

“What a great idea,” said School Committee member Robin Rounseville. The name of it – the whirl – if that doesn’t make you think of Chloe. … It’s so kind of you as a family to think of the school and I know this place gave Chloe a lot of pleasure.”

The next meeting of the Rochester School Committee is scheduled for September 5 at 6:30 pm at Rochester Memorial School.

OC Baseball Shutout in State Tournament

High School Sports Update

By Nick Friar

Old Colony baseball season isn’t quite done yet, but the Cougars’ shot at making a run in the MIAA Division 4 South Sectional tournament is at an end following their 7-0 to No. 6 Cohasset in Monday’s quarterfinals matchup.

The third-ranked Cougars fell behind 2-0 in the first inning, which the Skippers turned into a 3-0 lead by the end of the second. Old Colony pitcher Nick Hedlund and the defense settled in from there, but the Cougars offense simply couldn’t figure out Cohasset starting pitcher George Grech. Matt Bumpus and Jacob Worden were the old two Cougars with base hits.

“We got beat by a good baseball team,” Old Colony coach Craig Lincoln said. “If you don’t hit the ball, you don’t score runs - you don’t win games. It’s that simple. We talk about the mathematics of the game. Mathematically, they beat us today.”

As the Cougars tried to fight their way back, Hedlund ran into a little predicament in the seventh inning after the Skippers had already scored their fourth run of the game in the sixth frame. It seemed he was going to work his way out of a jam, but when a call didn’t go Old Colony’s way, Cohasset capitalized for three more runs to make it 7-0.

“Kind of fell apart a little bit,” Lincoln said. “More worried about blue instead of worrying about black. We talk about worrying about black and gold, control - what we can control. We lost our minds for a few minutes and talked about just getting our minds back together and getting ready for the vocational tournament and having the ability to win at the end of the season, which most of the time doesn’t happen for us.”

Now the Cougars await their matchup with McCann Tech in the State Vocational Final. No date has been set yet, but Old Colony will have to hit the road to play their western Massachusetts opponent.

Looking toward the future, the Cougars won a game in the South Sectional tournament and could potentially win two State Vocational Tournament games after going winless in the postseason in 2018. Having won their sixth-consecutive Mayflower Small Vocational Division title in 2019, the Cougars (15-5) want to maintain their development in 2020.

“Keeping these guys hungry and making sure [they’re] staying mentally focused from beginning to end,” Lincoln said on what needs to be the team’s focus going forward. “You have a team that started out as a bunch of sophomores last year that now, over the course of two years, has won 31 games. Pretty good.

“Helping them understand we’re not just trying to win a conference championship, we want to be successful in the postseason,” Lincoln continued. “And we kind of got the monkey off our back in both tournaments [by] getting a win in both tournaments this year. So [we will] continue to make strides with this group and hopefully keep the younger guys understanding what it’s going to take to keep the program going as we move forward.”

Awards.” The yearly community service honor, presented to one Tri-Town resident from each of the three central towns in our circulation area, will be announced in our July 25 edition, and each winner will be the subject of a short feature highlighting his/her contributions to the local community. But The Wanderer needs your help in selecting these “unsung heroes.”

The requirements are simple. Nominees must be legal residents for at least five years of Mattapoisett, Marion, or Rochester, and must have contributed in some way to the overall benefit of the community – either directly to town residents, or indirectly through efforts in promoting town activities, or working to keep the wheels of local government well oiled. The only restriction is that these persons cannot benefit from their efforts in any other way – either financially or politically (hence, sitting elected officials are not eligible).

In doing this, we hope to applaud those who are rarely recognized for their countless hours of service and focus on the many people behind the scenes who remain otherwise anonymous, but who provide crucial support to many town functions.

Like the keel of a ship that keeps the vessel from capsizing, the recipients of the Annual Wanderer Keel Award will be recognized for their stalwart efforts in keeping the community on an “even keel.”

Past recipients of this honor include:

– MATTAPOISETT: Maurice “Mudgie” Tavares (1994); Priscilla Alden Hathaway (1995); Norma Holt (1996); Gale Hudson (1997); Kenneth Stickney (1998); Clara Morgan (1999); Betty and Bert Theriault (2000); John N. “Jack” DeCosta (2001); Jo Pannell (2002); Stan Ellis (2003); Evelyn Pursley (2004); Luice Moncevitch (2005); Seth Mendell (2006); Bradford A. Hathaway (2007); Kim Field (2008); David Spencer Jenny (2009); Stephen L. Kelleher (2010); Bento Martin (2011); Howard C. Dear Friends,

We want to extend a sincere thank you to several people for their role in helping to make the town tour of Rochester possible for the third graders of Rochester Memorial School. Carol Hardy, Ann and Mike Cambra, Sharon and Woody Hartley, Lorraine Thompson, an anonymous donor, and the Friends of the Rochester Senior Center were all instrumental in this day from organizing and narrating the tour, serving up the birthday treats, and arranging the special commemorative t-shirts for the teachers and students. The third graders wanted to share some of the fun facts that they learned.

Did you know:
- Mary’s Pond may have been named after a Native American woman named Mary who drowned in that pond.
- Rochester had a town pound. Stray animals were put...

- The oldest house in Rochester is on Dexter Lane.
- The yellow house on the corner of Snipatuit Rd. was once a post office and a stagecoach stop.
- The old white sign in the center of town is from the 1800s.
- There was a townhouse that was rotting on the bottom and they cut off the top, threw away the bottom, and put the top on the bottom.
- Witch rock used to be known as the rock that had spirits in it and on a full moon they would come out.
- Rochester was almost named the capital of MA.
- The Snipatuit Pond causeway was created after a town meeting was held at the pond and it was decided that the pond was shallow enough to build a causeway to connect the two parts of town.
- Hiller farm was once owned by the Leonard family. On the property there used to be a horse track.
- There was a one room schoolhouse on Burgess Ave.
  Thanks again for this awesome day!

Academic Achievements

Emma Louise Keeler of Rochester and Grace Ann Russell of Mattapoisett graduated from Falmouth Academy on June 8.

Rachel McCoog of Marion graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Integrated SS/Engineering degree with Honors from Lehigh University in Spring 2019.

On Saturday, May 11, on the Worcester Polytechnic Institute (WPI) campus quadrangle, 1,019 bachelor’s degrees were awarded during the university’s 151st commencement ceremony. Stephen Burke of Rochester was awarded a Bachelor of Science degree in mechanical engineering. Chad Underhill of Rochester was awarded a Bachelor of Science degree in computer science with high distinction. Nicholas Lima of Marion was awarded a Master of Science degree in mechanical engineering.

The following students have been named to the Spring 2019 President’s List at Husson University. Olivia Ann Pellegrino of Mattapoisett is a sophomore who is currently enrolled in Husson’s Bachelor of Science in Healthcare Administration and Public Health/Master of Science in Occupational Therapy program. Hannah Nadeau of Rochester is a sophomore who is currently enrolled in Husson’s Bachelor of Science in Healthcare Studies/Master of Science in Occupational Therapy program. Students who make the President’s List must carry at least 12 graded credit hours during the semester and earn a grade point average of 3.80 to 4.0 during the period.

Emily Faulkner of Rochester, a Fine Arts major, and Casey Allaire of Mattapoisett, an Elementary Education major have been named to the Plymouth State University President’s List for the spring 2019 semester.
Dear Mattapoisett Residents,

We need your help!

The Town of Mattapoisett is facing a recycling contamination problem. Contamination has become such a global problem that China, one of the world’s largest receivers of recyclables, has instituted a “National Sword” policy. This policy has banned 24 types of solid waste, including various plastics and unsorted paper, and sets tougher standards for contamination levels. The result has been a near complete shutdown of U.S. recycling exports.

This is a serious issue we need to address, not only from an environmental standpoint, but from a fiscal one. To combat this problem, the Town applied for and was awarded a grant through MassDEP’s Sustainable Materials Recovery Program (SMRP). This grant allows the Town the ability to implement Recycling IQ with the purpose of reducing contamination in the residential recycling stream within the Commonwealth.

One of the major causes of contamination is the bagging of recyclables in plastic bags. Plastic wrapping and loose plastic bags in recycling bins are being caught in conveyor belts and sorting equipment, which is dangerous for workers at recycling stations. Another major issue is “wishful recycling”, which has led to large amounts of contamination by residents who believe items are recyclable but instead have a detrimental impact on the finished product. A general rule of thumb is “when in doubt, throw it out”.

Items that do belong in the recycling bins are clean papers, plastic (bottles, jars, jugs, and tubs), clean metal cans, clean glass jars and cardboard without food. In an effort to clean up our recycling, recycling monitors will be walking in your neighborhoods. They will be checking and grading your recycling.

If you have any questions about your recycling or what you can and cannot recycling, please visit our website at www.mattapoisett.net or contact the Mattapoisett Board of Health.

Thank you for working with us to make Mattapoisett’s curbside recycling smarter!
To be named to the president’s list, a student must achieve a grade point average of 3.7 or better for the Spring 2019 semester and must have attempted at least 12 credit hours during the semester.

There’s a lot of misinformation and fear surrounding ticks. What yard sprays should you use? What about “all-natural approaches”? What about deer? What if there was more you could do beyond just “covering up”?

All things ticks will be covered in this informational talk, including tick biology, tick-borne disease epidemiology, personal protection methods (repellents, proper removal), yard protection, and pet protection, with the goal of bursting myths and learning practical applications based on scientifically-backed data.

The Library is located at 7 Barstow Street and is handicapped accessible.

Sippican Historical Society

In 1998, the Sippican Historical Society commissioned an architectural survey of Marion’s historic homes and buildings. The survey was funded one-half by the Sippican Historical Society and one-half by the Massachusetts Historical Commission. Due to the limits of funding, not all of the historic buildings were surveyed, but over 100 were catalogued and photographed. The results of the survey are in digital form on the Massachusetts Historical Commission’s website and in four binders in the Sippican Historical Society’s office (and at the Marion Town Clerk’s office).

Marion (Old Rochester) is one of the oldest towns in the United States, and the Sippican Historical Society maintains an extensive collection of documentation on its historic buildings. The Sippican Historical Society will preview one building a week so that the residents of Marion can understand more about its unique historical architecture.

This installment features 290 Converse Road. The modest wood shingle-clad Italianate cottage at 290 Converse Road was built c. 1880 for and probably by Francis C. Blankinship a “carpenter and builder.” He lived here until at least 1910.

SLT Hosts Sunrise Photography at Brainard Marsh
Marian Howell, local landscape and nature photographer, will host sunrise photography at Brainard Marsh on Saturday, June 15 starting early at 4:30 am. All types of cameras are welcome – cellphones, compacts, dslrs, whatever you use – or just join us to experience one of the earliest sunrises of the year! Enjoy and explore this special time of day at this very splendid sunrise location.
Photographers love the pre-dawn time, known as the blue hour, followed by the low-angled post-dawn light, known as the golden hour. Sunrise that day is at 5:07 am so plan to arrive at 4:30 am to walk to the beach (bring a flashlight or wear a headlamp) to catch the end of the blue hour.

As the sun comes up over the horizon and golden hour begins, discover the images the light brings out on the beach, the marsh, the pond, and the woods. And you will be back home in time for breakfast!

Please contact the Sippican Lands Trust office if you plan on attending sunrise photography by sending an email to info@sippicanlandstrust.org. If poor weather requires rescheduling, then Sippican Lands Trust will post information about a new date to www.sippicanlandstrust.org by Noon on Friday, June 14.

Parking for Brainard Marsh is located near the corner of Bass Point Road and Delano Road (look for the Sippican Lands Trust’s Brainard Marsh sign). Parking is limited and please be careful while parking vehicle, better yet, ride your bike to Brainard Marsh and leave your car at home.

Students who are already members of SEMAYO and wish to remain in their current ensembles do not have to audition.

The audition requirements for each ensemble can be found at www.semayo.org. To set up an audition time, please email youth orchestra coordinator Jamie Wiksten at jwiksten@nbsymphony.org.

Animal Advice
Jay Gould, DVM

I realize that I should take my cat to the vet annually to get a physical and whatever vaccinations may be due, but getting the cat into the cat carrier is a chore. Any hints?

Cats are not dumb. If they see the cat carrier come out they disappear. Some cats don’t mind the carrier if it is left out all year round. Feed them in the carrier, allow them to nap in it, let it be associated with more pleasant experiences than a car ride.

If you haven’t gotten the cat to think positively about the carrier, put the cat in a bathroom prior to getting the carrier out of the basement. That way the cat can’t disappear. Bring the carrier into the bathroom and keep the door closed so the cat won’t escape. Feliway is a pheromone that may decrease your cat’s anxiety when it is sprayed or wiped on the carrier.

History of Wareham, England

Wareham has plenty of history … Wareham, England that is! Join the Wareham Historical Society on Monday, June 24 at 7:00 pm to hear “A Potted History of Wareham, Dorset, England” presented by Jon Wright. Wright is an expert on the history of our sister town of Wareham, England and will be visiting our own Wareham with his wife Marie this summer. He is also interested in learning more about our town so that upon his return to England, he can present a talk about Wareham, MA.

Wareham England is a historic market town located on the River Frome. The first mention of the town in written records was in the year 784. A rich detailing of history dating from the Anglo-Saxon period, through its civil war, and two world wars will be fascinating to anyone interested in our town’s namesake.

The presentation is open to the public. Admission: Free to Wareham Historical Society Members; Non-Members are $2. Refreshments will be served after the program.

Tri-Town Walking Tours
Tri-Town Walking Tours will enable residents and visitors to experience a piece of history this month.

Dr. Elise Frangos, Assistant Superintendent and Marion resident, and Mrs. Erin Bednarczyk of Rochester are leaders in the “Healthy, Safe, and Respectful Relationships” group of the Healthy Tri-Town Coalition. They are co-sponsoring community walks with the Marion, Mattapoisett, and Rochester Historical Societies. Three intergenerational June walks are planned to help residents of all ages connect with the fascinating local histories of our Tri-Towns. Frangos believes that the experience of walking through history may help local children, newcomers, as well as interested residents understand the rich history of the towns and become more civically involved, interested in community preservation, and consider being a part of their Historical Societies. “These gentle, non-athletic walks led by historical society experts will forge new relationships and showcase the incredible beauty and rich histories of our sister towns.” The walks are limited to 30 participants. Frangos hopes they will start continuous opportunities to connect students and residents to our diverse histories and our historical societies. Additionally, residents may forge new relationships while walking and talking.

The first walk will take place on June 15 from 10:00 am - 11:00 am. Marion history expert and author of 6 books, Ms. Judith Rosbe will lead the Marion walk starting at the Sippican Historical Society at 141 Front Street across from the newly refurbished Marion General Store.

Rosbe will lead participants to the Dr. Walton Nye and Ellis homes, strollers will proceed down Main, Water, and South Streets and the group will end with cookies in the Historical Society’s Memorial Garden.

The 2nd history walk will talk place in Mattapoisett on June 23 from 10:00 am to 11:00 am. Ms. Jennifer McIntire, Mattapoisett Historical Society President, will start the group at the Mattapoisett Museum and lead participants to the waterfront. Participants will learn the history of Shipyard Park and see many points of interest. Email Dr. Frangos at elisefrangos@oldrochester.org to reserve a space in either walk.

The final walk will take place on June 29 from 10:00 am to 11:00 am and highlight Rochester history. It will be led by two long-term, dedicated Historical Society members, Secretary, Susan Lefleur and Vice President, Connie Eschbach. The group will meet at the Plumb Corner parking lot, 555 Marion Rd., Rochester in the parking lot near Countryside Day Care then will cross Marion Road/Rte. 105 and gather in front of the Rochester Congregational Church. Stops will include the Congregational Church, Academy Building, Rochester Town Hall, and cross New Bedford Rd. to visit the cemetery where the headstones of prominent Rochester residents continue to tell the story of the town.

To reserve a place on the Rochester walk, email Erin Bednarczyk at erinbednarczyk@oldrochester.org.

Nobody’s Perfect

By Rob Gonsalves

Netflix’s new thriller The Perfection (with its impossible-to-remember title) relies on the type of screaming twists and turns on a dime that can stymie a reviewer. How can you talk about a movie like this to people who may not have seen it without nuking its surprises? You can’t, so I am obliged to sketch and suggest. The Perfection is about two cello prodigies, Charlotte (Allison Williams) and Lizzie (Logan Browning). The menacing artsiness and female trauma that inform the movie’s tone put it in the same small folder as Suspiria (either version) and Black Swan. It seems to switch not just gears but genres, several times. I would recommend going into it completely cold, and not even watching the trailer, which prankishly sets a viewer up to expect a vastly different film than it turns out to be.

What you get for your trouble is a handsomely photographed (by Vanja Černjul, who also shot Crazy Rich Asians), feverishly written (by director Richard Shepard with Eric Charmelo and Nicole Snyder) thriller that gets you hating one character, then another, then someone else, until finally balance is bloodily, poetically, and somewhat ludicrously restored. The Perfection is therefore not the nicest movie or experience. It exists to pull the rug out from under you, repeatedly, until you mistrust the rug and the floor under it. Is it pleasurable? Here and there. It’s more gripping than entertaining; it squeezes us, it pulls on the short hairs of our temples. It establishes and maintains control — bullying control. Like most thrillers great and poor, it essentially takes a rapist’s attitude toward the audience. It gets you alone and has its way with you.

The redeeming factor here is that, ultimately, The Perfection shakes out as a #MeToo revenge thriller. Its brutality and manipulations come to seem necessary in order to convey the winding tone required to get us, in the end, on the side of victims who at first seem like aggressors. We may feel betrayed at certain points, but so have its characters. The movie also ladles equal amounts of beauty and rancid ugliness into its hermetic aesthetic, breaking away from that only during a cold roadside scene that packs the most painful violence, which comes to be seen as an act of mercy. The events leading up to the scene — like much else in the movie, and indeed in most thrillers — won’t stand up to harsh scrutiny. The plot depends on a hostile bus driver behaving as a character secretly wants him to. I imagine there’s a deleted scene involving the close study of bus routes so as to guarantee winding up in a desolate area.

The Perfection also contains the following: a tender same-sex lovemaking scene; a few lovely if stressful music performances; a performance by Steven Weber that confirms my longstanding suspicion that he’s aging into William Fichtner; a laughable flashback (or rewind, really) that explains how a cooking instrument comes into a character’s possession (almost as funny as the preceding scene in which the character just randomly seems to produce said instrument — the movie is firmly in the tradition of thrillers that can’t possibly take themselves seriously and don’t want us to, either; a bit that had me thinking we were in Romeo Is Bleeding territory and on the exit into Long Jeanne Silver turf; a quaint confidence in various medications to have exactly the effect on someone that one hopes they will have.

There’s more, but I grow tired of avoiding writing about the story. I can finish by praising the intense performances of Williams and Browning, or the way a cello performance that must proceed without error elicits more sympathetic wincing than does the sometimes graphic violence, or the film’s nearly Cronenberghian reliance on body horror and disfigurement. The Perfection is strongly made, scene for scene, and it ends on a note of serene unity of soul through music in the face of ghastly oppression. But I can’t say I didn’t breathe a sigh of relief when it was done squeezing my soft bits. I won’t claim it doesn’t have the right to play with sensitive themes and elements to get its effects; I think, ultimately, it earns that right and shows itself to be compassionate. You do have to navigate a whole lot of bear traps to get there, though, and you may not agree that it’s worth the journey, with all its hurt and vomit and maggoty visions of sickness. I can raise a glass to the skill of all involved but I’m in no hurry to feel all those things, see all those things, again any time soon.
Plan on a day of family fun beginning with a tasty and ever popular chicken dinner prepared on their open barbeque pits. The menu includes half a chicken with cranberry sauce, a vegetable, potato, roll, watermelon, and a beverage. Meals will be available from Noon – 3:00 pm or while supply lasts. Tickets may be purchased after weekend masses or on the day of the event. They are priced at $15 for adults and $10 for children 12 years and under.

A concession stand and bakery booth will be stocked with a variety of other foods to tempt everyone’s palate.

Come and enjoy some old fashion fun! There will be games to test your skill and luck, a bouncy house, dunk tank, raffles, a silent auction, and a white elephant table. DJ Alex will provide entertainment throughout the day.

Bring your whole family and join the festivities at St. Rose of Lima, just off 105 in Rochester at 282 Vaughan Hill Road.

Survival Week is as much a test of ORR seventh-grade students’ wilderness survival skills as it is a test of their parents’ ability to make the most of the week without their kids. On Sunday, June 9, parents, siblings, and family pets waited eagerly for their children’s arrival from Survival 2019. After a few big hugs, parents whisked their kids away to home and a hot shower. While half the students head off for Survival, the others enjoy a week of equally challenging tasks of the 40-year tradition of SCOPE that gives students a chance to learn while learning about themselves and each other. SALOME’S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Try using that Aries charm to warm up the usual set of workplace naysayers, and then back it up with a solid block of facts and figures to sell your idea to your colleagues.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) While nothing can deter a determined Bovine from following a course you believe in, it helps to have some supporting data and statements by trusted colleagues to make your case.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Take advantage of new information that could help make your career transition easier. The weekend is a good time to re-establish relationships with people you haven’t seen in a while.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Personal matters demand your attention as once-stable situations begin to shift. Quick action to shore things up is called for in order to avoid more problems down the line.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Although your financial picture begins to brighten, “thrift” and “caution” are still the watchwords for fiscally astute Leos and Leonas to live by. Expect news about a family matter.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Before you try to blame a colleague for a workplace problem, make sure you have the proof to back you up. Make some quiet inquiries on your own to try to solicit more information.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Trying to cheer up a depressed friend or downcast family member can be difficult. But keep at it, and your efforts should soon pay off in ways you might have never expected.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Taking a new look at an old and frequently recurring problem might lead you to consider making some surprising changes in the way you had been handling it up till now.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Despite what the naysayers might say, setting your sights on a new goal could be one of the smartest things the typically sagacious Sagittarian has done in a long time.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Rebuilding an unraveling relationship won’t be easy. But you can do it, if you really want to. Just remember to keep the lines of communication open between the two of you.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A new friendship could develop into a close relationship. Meanwhile, reassure an old friend who might be feeling neglected that he or she is still an important part of your life.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You might be feeling that you’re still in over your head as you continue trying to adjust to your new situation. But the pressures ease by week’s end, giving you time to come up for air.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a gift for sensing the feelings of others. You might consider a career in some aspect of counseling.

DO YOU KNOW WHY I PULLED YOU OVER?

The Kids are Quiet...

Too Quiet...

Amber Waves
There are many reasons why people flock to Marion each summer; sandy beaches, fine sailing, and a quaint village atmosphere have made it a seasonal haven for over a century. For the last 22 years, though, Marion has attracted crowds each July for quite a different reason: its music. Since 1997, Marion has been home to the Buzzards Bay Musicfest, a multi-day concert series featuring some of the world’s finest and most accomplished musicians.

The Musicfest’s original concept was based on the remarkable success of the Sunflower Music Festival, as many of the nationally recognized artists involved in that Topeka, Kansas festival expressed interest in locating a similar event in the Cape Cod area. After identifying the outstanding location of Tabor Academy - with its excellent Performing Arts Center - as well as host families to house the artists, a steering committee from Marion and the surrounding area organized and incorporated the Buzzards Bay Musicfest, Inc. The articles of incorporation include three fundamental goals: to produce and present annual festivals of professional orchestra concerts & chamber music programs of the highest quality possible, to add to the cultural and educational life of the community and surrounding region through performances and educational activities, and to stimulate interest in and support for the arts and make outstanding presentations available for both residents and visitors to the Buzzards Bay and Cape Cod areas, as well as throughout the region.

By design, all concerts are free. It was the mission of the Musicfest’s founding members to provide an extraordinary opportunity for cultural enrichment to the public -- without cost. Totally underwritten by its Founding Board members for the Musicfest’s initial seasons, the size and scope of the presentations have grown, and a number of generous supporters have enabled it to continue for 23 years. While the Buzzards Bay Musicfest Foundation provides a small percentage... of the festival’s operating budget, the vast majority of funding comes from donations. In past years, a whopping 93% of the Musicfest’s funding came from individual donations and small grants. Staged at Tabor Academy’s Fireman Center, the series opens and closes with orchestral concerts, with two chamber music concerts, and a jazz performance held in-between. A highlight of the festival is the Open Rehearsal, a unique opportunity for young, old, and aspiring musicians. This event provides, for many people, their first classical music experience; it includes a post-rehearsal meet & greet session with the Musicfest’s Guest Conductor, Antony Walker, as well as its many distinguished performers, and the Artistic Director, Charles Stegeman. These gifted musicians have presented hundreds of works in a variety of styles and ensembles, ranging from chamber music duos and trios to full orchestra. Each year brings new works from a variety of composers. This year’s selections will include works by Bach, Mozart, Mendelssohn, Spohr, Dohnanyi, Ligeti, Debussy, Dvorak, Vivaldi, Grieg, and Brahms.

With each season, the Musicfest continues to grow and expand its range. Four years ago, a performance by the sensational Sean Jones Quartet was added to the concert series, a complement to the classical variety of the Musicfest’s traditional offerings. This year’s return of the BBMF ten-piece ensemble Swing Band in “A Tribute to Duke Ellington”, under the leadership of Phil Sanborn is bound to be a memorable event.

The 2019 BBMF concert series is pleased to announce Antony Walker as Guest Conductor. Walker is the Music Director of Pittsburgh Opera and Artistic Director of Washington Concert Opera in D.C. Since making his debut in Sydney, Australia in 1992, Maestro Walker has conducted over 100 operas, as well as large scale choral orchestra/symphonic works with companies and orchestras in Australia, the U.S., Asia, the UK, and Europe. He is the founding Artistic Director and now Conductor Emeritus of the award-winning Pinchgut Opera in Sydney and has recorded over 40 CDs, many of which are complete rarely performed operas, on ABC Classics.

The 2019 Buzzards Bay Musicfest begins with its Open Rehearsal for All (children welcome with accompanying adult), to be held on Wednesday, July 10th at 2:30 pm. Orchestral performances will be held Wednesday, July 10th at 8 pm and Sunday, July 14th at 2 pm. Chamber music performances will be held Thursday, July 11th and Saturday, July 13th at 8 pm. The BBMF Swing Band performance will be held Friday, July 12th at 8 pm. For more information about the BBMF, or the performances, visit www.buzzardsbaymusicfest.com or email info@buzzardsbaymusicfest.com.

years. During that time, the FOTMCOA has purchased furnishings, appliances, and televisions that the COA has used in its social rooms for the benefit of seniors frequenting the COA.

In the community, the FOTMCOA has provided financial support to seniors in need of such items as a new refrigerator or kitchen stove.

The group also sponsors the monthly COA newsletter “Seasonings,” as well as hosting various special event luncheons throughout the year giving seniors the opportunity met up with other seniors for a bit of fun and food, social emotional support enriching the lives of Mattapoisett’s senior population.

The fundraising work of the FOTMCOA supports COA programs, education, and other needs for which public funds are either not available or need supplementing.

Due to a decrease in membership, new members are now urgently needed to carry on the mission of the FOTMCOA.

Can you help? If you can share an hour once a month to attend the FOTMCOA meeting or wish to assist in any way possible, please contact Anne Bartnowski at 508-758-4603 or email at annebartswife@yahoo.com.

aged 50 years old and above. The group is geared to the needs of a range of participants including those unemployed, underemployed, unhappily employed, returning to the workforce after a gap, or retired and seeking a totally new career direction. Those looking for full- or part-time employment are welcome. There is no charge for the program.

Each session will focus on a different topic including assessing skills, developing a job search plan, revising resumes, creating a LinkedIn profile, interviewing, networking, and more. In addition to providing a supportive environment, the sessions will offer materials, strategies, techniques, and other resources, which can accelerate the often tedious and discouraging search for a job. The issues of ageism will also be integrated into each session to provide participants with an understanding of the age discrimination that is often experienced in the job search process.

The formal session will be from 1:00 pm - 3:00 pm. Participants are encouraged to arrive at 12:30 pm to check-in and for networking.

The program is funded by the Massachusetts Executive Office of Elder Affairs and managed by the Massachusetts Councils on Aging (MCOA) in partnership with the Acushnet and Marion Councils on Aging.

Meetings are held in Marion on the 1st Tuesday of each month and in Acushnet on the 3rd Tuesday.

Meetings are free of charge, but registration is required. To reserve your space visit: www.mcoaonline.com/50plus.

For specific questions, contact: Heather Sylvia at 508-998-0280 or Karen Gregory at 508-748-3570.

This historic masterpiece was the gift of Elizabeth Sprague Pitcher Taber whose vision was that Marion and surrounding communities have a hall for lectures, concerts, and performances. It was constructed in 1891 for $23,000. Through the years, it has been a favored venue for town committee meetings and parties, for concerts and musicals, and for private events including weddings and parties. Mrs. Taber also had the vision to build the Town Library and Natural History Museum, the Stone Chapel at the Congregational Church, and Tabor Academy, originally founded to educate girls and boys of Marion.

The Music Hall is available free of charge to all Town of Marion committees and organizations such as the Elizabeth Taber Library, the Council on Aging, and the Police and Fire Departments. In honoring Elizabeth Taber’s wishes, it remains accessible to all Marion citizens according to the new fee schedule, which helps defray the costs to taxpayers while covering maintenance and utility expenses. While the rate structure has changed, the rates remain among the most competitive in Marion and surrounding towns. Local couples will be hard pressed to find such a great wedding venue on a weekend for as low as $600.

For inquiries and further information, please contact Tami Daniel, Music Hall Coordinator, at tdaniel@marionma.gov or 508-748-9536.
