Strom Finds Strength to Share
By Mick Colageo
Inspired by her angels, Hannah Strom is already strategizing on how to pay it forward. “I want to help people just like people helped me,” she told The Wanderer last week, only days after taking the giant step of a Sunday run from Island Wharf along Front Street past Pitcher Street where she lives and on down to Silvershell Beach, where she was greeted by her father Tom Strom bearing a golden doodle puppy named Ruthie.

The surprise at the finish line capped a very gratifying event for Hannah, her family, and all those who supported her.

“Those who ran with her were perfect to run with her; those are just some of her angels. That Abigail never gave up, she would write things down on Hannah,” said Hannah’s mother, Gail Theresa Matoes-Strom. “We’ve had all these sort of angels help Hannah. I called them ‘the running dream team.’ All of them wanted to run with her, especially her very first therapist.... I was really touched.
Abigail Spaulding, that “very first therapist” whose last name is coincidental to her employment with Spaulding Rehabilitation in Charlestown, was present for Hannah’s first step and first time out of bed. Secured by a body harness, Hannah wasn’t able to hold her head up, according to Gail. “[Abigail] had to hold her up so many times, then she had to take her upstairs,” she said. “Each week, Hannah would get just a little bit better. [Abigail] actually saved Hannah in a lot of ways.”

Even amidst the coronavirus pandemic, few could ever understand how long 2020 has been for Hannah Strom, whose ordeal began on January 15 when the van she was riding in with her Holy Cross rowing teammates collided with a pickup truck in Vero Beach, Florida, taking the life of teammate Grace Rett and inflicting severe injuries on several others.

Her lengthy and complicated road back began in a Florida hospital and saw her continue to rehab at Massachusetts General Hospital and Spaulding Rehabilitation Hospital in Boston. On June 3, she returned home with a police escort and was cheered as she passed through the Tabor Academy campus and Marion village.

Hannah finished first in her class at Tabor, and among her December 13 running mates was Meredith Finch, Hannah’s rowing coach and academic advisor for her senior year at Tabor.
“I’m really happy to have the opportunity to coach and work with Hannah back when she was at Tabor and all through this. She’s an amazing athlete and a really hard worker,” said Finch.

Finch, as she is known around campus, went several times to see Hannah in the intensive care unit “and would sit in on some of her sessions so they’re close,” said Gail.

Hannah’s lengthy, in-patient stint at Spaulding concluded with an eight-week program called the “The Disorders of Consciousness.” The program was nearing completion when the therapists wanted Hannah to extend “because they felt they could do more wonderful things with her,” according to Gail.

“During the two weeks that the program was extended, miracles started happening.”

Hannah went from “You’re going home with a feeding tube” and “She’ll need this, she’ll need that—little by little—to eating normally,” said Gail. “I just envisioned that 100 percent I was getting my daughter back.”

Hannah was put on a calorie count, and a week before going home, the feeding tube came out. She was given a wheelchair to use at home, but when she got home, she didn’t want to use it. “I’m 19; I shouldn’t have to use a wheelchair,” said Gail, recalling Hannah’s words.

Therapy progressed after Hannah got home to Marion. She has been working once a week with Cheryl Langlais of Seaside Physical Therapy on Front Street while continuing twice-weekly visits to Spaulding’s center in Sandwich. Since July, she has made weekly visits to see Lynn Carlson at Acton-based ChiroPro. Her therapists give her work to do at home, too.

Hannah does some of that with her 16-year-old brother David, a junior at Tabor, who shares Hannah’s passion for rowing and is a member of the Seawolves’ crew team. David ran alongside his sister and has been mature beyond his years.

“He’s been really strong; he was only 15 when the accident happened,” recalled Gail, who anticipates returning soon to her job at Verizon. “Out of that entire time, I only came home two days to get clothes for her— they want you to wear regular clothes for physical therapy— and some appointments. Both times my sister stayed with her ... for three months, I didn’t leave the seventh floor. He would always tell me, ‘I know you’re where you need to be.’ He’s been my rock.”

Her magnificent strides notwithstanding, Hannah struggles to hear. “It’s a very rare thing to happen, we are told,” said Gail. “Her ears are fine, but when the sound goes in, for us, it goes up and around to the other side of the brain, but for her, it doesn’t happen.”

Because Hannah is only 20 years old and her brain is not finished developing, the family is encouraged that she will find a new neural pathway to process sounds. She remains undeterred and anticipates a return to Holy Cross in 2021.

“I’m a psychology major, and I didn’t know what I want to do,” Hannah said, thinking back to her life before the accident. Thanks to the impression her “angels” have left on her, she knows now. “I hopefully want to go to graduate school for physical therapy. I want to help people just like people helped me.”

Scotland’s National Poet Gave Times Square its Signature Song
By George B. Emmons

Robert Burns, who lived from 1738 to 1798, is today renowned in the literary English-speaking world as Scotland’s so-called Ploughman Poet; this title is both spelled and pronounced in heavy Scottish brogue to relate to his pastoral pleasures of writing verse and music in the 18th century with a Highland flair.

His parents were hard-working tenant farmers, and the hardship of this feudal life took its toll on the free-minded Burns. As he matured, his attention turned to an inner passion for creative writing and composing verse and song. He evolved as a well-known Gaelic romantic pioneer and founder of social and liberal orchestration of his life and the times. During this productive period in his working life, he was distracted by illicit affairs with women and drinking, but by the age of 27, he became famous for poems such as “To a Louse,” “To a Mouse,” and “The Cotter’s Saturday Night.”

Perhaps the most remarkable quality about his masterpieces is their sing-ability and perspicacity in how he joins words to tunes that gave his rhythmical flow of verse and phrases an authentic effect of Highland creation. I have illustrated Burns as playing the bagpipes because, like the tartan clan colors, they have become iconic symbols of both Highland and Lowland life where a town piper parades the local streets to wake people up in the morning or announce the end of the day time to go to sleep.

The instrument began with an air bag, chanter, and one single drone (pipe), with the addition of a second in the 1500s. A third “great” drone added in the early 18th century gave the instrument a volume that made the pipes audible for up to seven miles. From across the Highland crofts and from glen to glen down the mountain way to the Lowlands of Loch Ness’ shores and meadows, the mournful cadence of dirge of marching into the battle was the ceremonial essence of Scottish nationality.

Before he died in 1798, Burns was elected as the national poet of Scotland. After he was gone, his friends gathered annually on his birthday, January 25, to celebrate with memorial events that included a haggis meal with his poetry before serving. After the meal, two poems were recited: “The Immortal Memory” and “Toast to the Lassies.”

The second poem paid tribute to Burns as a man with a way with women and the many songs he wrote about them. This tribute later became a national holiday every year in Scotland, but elsewhere second fiddle to his iconic New Year’s Eve classic “Auld Lang Syne.”

The festive ceremony was sung by a group of family and friends holding hands in a circle of mutual remembrance of “auld acquaintance” and time not to be forgotten.

This tribute to Burns’ nostalgic work has earned its status of quintessential worldwide celebration and recognition at the exact midnight moment of the countdown in Times Square, New York City, with the playing of the tune by Guy Lombardo’s Royal Canadian Orchestra before the flaming ball of fire drops to usher in the New Year.

If I may, I shall take this image of remembering to wish you all a very Happy New Year.
Freetown Turns Down Old Colony
Rochester Board of Selectmen
By Mick Colageo

The Rochester Board of Selectmen was notified during its December 21 meeting that the Town of Freetown had joined the Bristol-Plymouth district, declining the October 27 invitation made by the Old Colony Regional School District.

The notification, received on December 14, means that students from Freetown currently attending Old Colony Regional Vocational Technical High School will be the last allowed to make that choice. Had Freetown accepted Old Colony’s invitation, the town’s addition to the district would have required a unanimous vote in Rochester’s spring Town Meeting.
In other business, Rochester Town Counsel Blair Bailey told the selectmen to anticipate the Planning Board’s official approval of Ken Steen’s 40R residential project on Route 28 and a selectmen’s vote at its next meeting.

Meantime, Phil Cordeiro, who has represented Steen throughout many Planning Board and Conservation Commission meetings, has requested an increase over Steen’s original request for water allocation.

Selectman Woody Hartley asked how this request will affect Rochester’s water agreement with the Town of Wareham and whether Rochester should ask Wareham for more water.

Bailey reported a discussion earlier in the day with Town Administrator Suzanne Szyndlar.

“Given this project’s numbers, I think what we have to do is move forward with it and, yes, if it turns out they are using that much (water), then I think we do need to go to Wareham,” said Bailey. “I think the issue is every engineer I’ve spoken to says that those are [Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection] numbers that bear absolutely no resemblance to the actual water usage of the project.”

Bailey advised that the project be permitted, and then see how much water is actually being used. “Wareham has said to us they’re absolutely willing to give us whatever water want to use,” he said. “I think we need numbers from them on their three commercial sites that they want to [establish].”

Szyndlar reported from a conversation with Cordeiro that his projection of over 29,000 gallons per day was based on all the future build-up scenarios that would not be completed for at least two to three years.

On Friday, the Town of Rochester received stickers for the use of the Benson Brook Transfer Station and beach stickers from the Town of Marion. Szyndlar anticipated that Rochester’s website would post access information over the next day or two.

Benson Brook is scheduled to open on Wednesdays and Saturdays from 8:00 am to 3:00 pm, but the days and times are subject to change. The cost for stickers will be $70 for Rochester residents and $60 for seniors, with administrative costs tacked onto previously announced costs.

Also, in her Town Administrator’s Report, Szyndlar reported that Delta Dental has given relief of 35 percent of the November premium adjusted invoice to subscribers who are town employees, the second time they have done so.

The selectmen will sign the annual Town Meeting and Election warrant as one combined document.

In a 6:10 pm continued hearing for a street name change, Rochester resident Thomas Cullen was granted a request to change the name of the road that serves his home only.

“It’s just a personal reason. My wife of 16 years and I have been driving down this road named in my ex-wife’s maiden name (Duhamel),” explained Cullen, who wants to celebrate the paying off of his mortgage.

The new name will be Patty’s Way. Cullen would like a street number as well, something he will request from the building commissioner.

Hartley reported to the board on two grant pursuits, one aimed at CARES Act funding for the development of year-round outside activities, and another for a canopy solar array in the parking lot at Rochester Memorial School.

The selectmen voted to accept Annie Maxim House donations and send a letter of thanks on behalf of all town boards that received a donation. The donations included: $750 to the ambulance service, $1,000 to the Police Department, $500 to the Fire Department, and $250 to the Council on Aging.

The selectmen voted to sign the Lakeville Animal Shelter annual agreement.

The board broke off into an executive session to discuss negotiations with vendors and a strategy for negotiations with non-union personnel.

The next meeting of the Rochester Board of Selectmen is scheduled for January 4 at 6:00 pm.

Larkin Looks to Assist ORR Administration

Marion Finance Committee

By Mick Colageo

Marion Town Administrator Jay McGrail simply has not had time to attend a string of recent Sippican Elementary School budget subcommittee meetings, so the Finance Committee sought to appoint a member to act as the town’s liaison to the subcommittee.

The eventual appointment of FinCom member Karen Kevelson was only one of several made, as each member attending FinCom’s December 16 meeting left with a homework assignment.

Chairman Peter Winters handed off the meeting to committee member Shay Assad, who in turn engaged member Charles Larkin regarding the latter’s ongoing interests in creating a comprehensive financial report.

“Charlie has been really active in trying to gain a relationship with ORR,” said Assad, inviting Larkin to take the floor. Larkin confirmed that interest.

“I feel a little bit like Don Quixote here, but I have a vision of putting together with downloads from their mainframe a very user-friendly financial report,” explained Larkin. “Going back ‘x’ amount of years because I don’t know how far back we can go. If I could go back five, I would. And then the state sanctions exactly what departments they have so every school district has the same ones.”

Larkin continued, “I won’t get the numbers right, but Department 031 is like ‘the faculty in the shop room,’ and it’s that way for everybody. And, believe it or not, that information exists. It’s just not presented in a way that many of us really can understand.” He told the committee that he knows of examples of other municipalities in which the numbers are presented in “a great way for the school committee. It’s not really about financial oversight. It’s a great way for the school committee and the superintendent to present the information.”

Larkin would like to see such a presentation at least once a year, and, ideally, twice annually.

At the time of FinCom’s December 16 meeting, Larkin had yet to meet privately with new Superintendent Mike Nelson or Assistant Superintendent of Finance. and Operations Howie Barber. They did meet at the Music Hall when FinCom invited ORR administration to present an overview. He had met earlier in the year with former Superintendent of Schools Doug White and his interim financial assistant, Lincoln Lynch, but is now starting over.

Waiting on an official appointment by FinCom to act as its liaison to ORR, Larkin envisions a creation that would require minimal tweaking for subsequent presentations.

Larkin estimates that approximately half of Marion’s budget goes to ORR and Sippican Elementary School. “If you’re going to start slaying dragons, to me, that’s where we need to start,” he said. “There’s far-reaching consequences to this; I don’t think there’s a lot of trust. I’m trying to go in with my hands open and try to be embraced as someone who wants to be additive. I know FinCom’s history is to challenge them, whereas what I’m trying to do is say, ‘Hey, look. There’s only so much money in the pie. Is it possible to reallocate?’”

Larkin continued, “What else could we do? But without the numbers, I can’t even begin to make any valuable contribution. And it turns out … of the 350 some-odd towns in Massachusetts, very few of them do this.”

Acknowledging the School Committee’s independence, Larkin referenced McGrail’s recent meeting of Tri-Town department heads and openly hoped that the same kind of collaboration can exist with the school district. He envisions a report featuring line items in each educational department, including expenses for administration, faculty, and supplies.

“If you could do some financial numbers, you might be able to help them, but, if nothing else, you’d be able to report back to the town in a way that is not very common,” said Larkin. “They have done a lot of work; it’s been really hard, and there’s been some stops and starts. I’m just trying to contribute, and so I just grabbed onto the schools … and I don’t really have a lot to show for it except I think I know what needs to be done. Even though I don’t know how to look at a school district, I’m used to a bunch of numbers on spreadsheets and sort of summarize … that complexity to digestible formats for people to have opinions on and vote on. So that’s sort of the impetus of it.”

Assad was pleased to hear Larkin’s rationale.

“A number of guys I know that on the committee have actually run a business, and you’ve got to scratch your head and say, ‘How could you actually run a business if you’re not doing the kinds of things that you describe?’” Assad said. “And that goes for how you actually competently establish a budget if you didn’t have that kind of information available to you so you could assess whether or not it’s being properly allocated. I think, if you can get there, it would be a home run, especially if it enabled them as a school committee to look at other school districts— and they may be doing very well compared to other school districts— nobody really knows.”

As an example, Larkin said that the Town of Weston allocates over 60 percent of its budget to its schools.

“I don’t know if that’s good or bad, but if you want to take a far-reaching concept so [that] we’re talking tactics and information and an esprit de corps— finance, town government, school committee, school leadership working together— really what you’re talking about is if a young family is going to choose the southeast coast if you don’t have a school system that is on the up,” said Larkin.

For Marion to attract younger families, Larkin saying the quality of education has to be raised. Otherwise, the cost of living will continue to trend higher per capita. Larkin compared the value of detailed school expenditures to how valuable it would have been to the town to fully understand 10-15 years ago how much money it would cost to repair the sewer system.

“To me, it’s the only way forward,” he said.

McGrail told the committee that the ORR administration enjoyed the recent meeting with the Marion FinCom. “I think overall that was a really good meeting,” said McGrail, who told Nelson and Barber that Larkin would be reaching out, something that had not happened by December 16. “Things are insane right now. I talk to them every day, purely because of the pandemic.

It’s a wild time for all of us, and it’s going to be hard to focus.”

McGrail recommended Larkin begin by attending budget subcommittee meetings and finding opportunities for informal conversation.

Larkin would eventually like to work closely with ORR administration and convey the message that, “We’re all in this thing together, we really are.”

McGrail concurred. “If I’ve gotten anything out of the pandemic, is that it solidified a relationship with that group that exists, with Marion, ORR, Sippican, and even the other two towns, certainly Rochester. I think it’s there,” he said, noting the administration’s daily preoccupation with the pandemic. “Right now, it’s just nuts; it’s COVID all day, every day.”

“It should work, it’s just going to take a little time,” said Assad.

With the Marion Police contract accomplished, McGrail is currently working on contracts with the Department of Public Works and clerical unions.

In addition to Larkin acting as liaison with the ORR budget subcommittee, FinCom deployed liaisons to town departments. Kevelson will act as FinCom’s liaison with Sippican School. Bill Marvel will work with the DPW, John Menzel with Capital Planning, Assad with Police, Margie Baldwin will stay on the Community Preservation Committee, and Winters will work with the Fire Department.

McGrail reported to the committee on a budget timeline. He has received all departmental budgets except for DPW and Sippican School. He is also waiting on ORR. He said, “Free cash at this point is pretty much certified,” and he expects by mid to late January to have a budget to send simultaneously to the Board of Selectmen and FinCom. Weekly budget hearings will angle toward a March conclusion.

The next meeting of the Marion Finance Committee is scheduled for January 20 at 7:00 pm.
Developer Decides on Market-Valued Homes
Mattapoisett Planning Board
By Marilou Newell

Last summer, August 3 to be exact, developer Ryan Correia came before the Mattapoisett Planning Board asking what type of development option the town would like to see on the 21 acres he owned at 3 Crystal Springs Road.

As reported by The Wanderer in the August 8 edition, Correia discussed several subdivision possibilities.

“The conceptual plans as described would include eight single-family homes on large lots in the town’s RR80 district. Those homes would have 3 to 4 bedrooms and two or more baths serviced by septic systems. But Correia said he wanted to plan the project that “...the town wants.”

Correia said, “This concept is a by rights project, but we could look at 40B housing or senior units also.” He said before his team invested in a variety of development options, they wanted to hone in on what the town would find most acceptable.

“There are massive resource and wetlands in there,” said [engineer Nyles] Zager said of the parcel. He said that the single-family concept versus cluster units, duplexes, apartments, or condominiums would, “Fit the land with ample open spaces.” But other designs were not out of the question he stated. Zager noted that multi-unit designs would mean far more engineering and time given the wetlands on the property.

and that it is an area significant to Massachusetts Wildlife's Natural Heritage and Endangered Species Program. "These single-family homes will be designed to fit into the natural landscape," he said.

The subdivision concept as presented would include three lots with frontage on Crystal Spring Road and a roadway with cul de sac for five more. "But we are looking for your input," Ryan reiterated.

Several board members commented that affordable housing was something the town needed with member Janice Robbins saying later in the discussion, "It seems clear we need more affordable housing in Mattapoisett, this plan will just be more homes not affordable." "Cluster housing done right could be very affective," she continued. Member Karen Field clearly stated, "We need 40B.

While the board members agreed that affordable housing was needed, where such housing should be placed remained an open question.

Now, on December 21, Correia had made his decision to move forward with five single-family homes priced at market rates. Multiple waivers affecting the type of access roadway needed for the two lots are required to achieve what Zager called the best plan for Correia financially. "Before we go further, we need to ask the board about waivers," said Zager.

When asked by board member Janice Robbins exactly what waivers they would be seeking, Zager responded, "Nearly all of them." He said that the plan would eliminate an additional three lots, possibly making the project as proposed more acceptable, given that wetlands would not be as affected by development. "The remainder of the land would remain open space."

Chairman Tom Tucker asked Zager to confirm with the Fire Department the type of access needed for fire trucks. The board asked Correia to return with fully executed plans and waivers required. A hearing date was not set at the end of the informal discussion.

More stumbling blocks prevented a proposed roadway improvement project for an existing subdivision from moving forward when Steve Gioiosa of SITEC Engineering returned to the board.

At the December 7 meeting, the board had asked Gioiosa to obtain confirmation from the Fire Department that the proposed improvements were acceptable. Robbins had also asked for a complete subdivision drawing to get a full picture of the entire subdivided area being serviced by the roadway in question. Those drawings promoted more questions than answers for Gioiosa.

Robbins said of the submitted documents, "The 1970 subdivision created five lots on Selha Way, but the westerly side was not part of the subdivision, so it’s not legal for those lots to use Selha Way." She said that this discovery was "an impediment to approval" of the requested site plan amendment for roadway improvements.

Gioiosa said that such matters were not within his purview and that he would need to talk to his client, Eric Medeiros, and his attorney for further guidance.

Robbins advised Gioiosa, saying, "This lot was never part of the subdivision, and now you have an amendment to the subdivision. I hear you that this is a road improvement plan, but you have to show this lot—the whole subdivision—as you would normally." She went on to say that, as presented, the road was not in a recordable format and added, "Once you get the right of access, you could amend the subdivision. You need legal access before you can get approval."

The hearing was continued until January 4.

Also continued until January 4 was a continued hearing for Randall Lane, LLC for the construction of a solar array.

The next meeting of the Mattapoisett Planning Board is scheduled for January 4 at 7:00 pm.

Bill Washburn, Warren Washburn, and Chris Washburn were among the Washburns on Monday night’s Zoom meeting to talk about making Washburn Lane an outlet and creating an inlet on the opposite side of private property along that road.

As explained by Bill Washburn, the idea is to use the 30-foot-wide Washburn Lane for traffic entering Route 6 and for traffic turning off of Route 6 to use a yet-to-be-constructed road, the pinch point of which is almost 40 feet wide.

“Before we went any further and spent any money doing up a plan, we wanted to know if that would be acceptable,” said Bill Washburn.

The other option posed was constructing a new road to a width that the Planning Board would accept. However, the questions that the Washburns came to the meeting with were not the same questions that they took home for further study and evaluation.

Washburn estimates that the road is at least 100 years old. It used to wind along cornfields on its way past Washburn Park. “The road may have moved,” said Bill Washburn, alluding to a 1910 document and a 1906 photo.

Planning Board member Norm Hills brought up the 100-foot contiguous frontage requirement that cannot be met and asked if the road is a private way. Bill Washburn said, “It’s a private way that’s used by everybody.” Today softball players and dog walkers use the road.

Hills said, “We may need legal answers here,” and many of the revelations that followed brought him and the board as a whole back to that point.

The Washburns had discussed the future of the property with town representatives for years. Chris Washburn said that the Department of Public Works plows from Route 6 all the way to the ballpark. Bill Washburn says that, except for a pie-shaped piece of the road, the Town of Marion owns the road.

Planning Board members Christopher Collings and Eileen Marum discussed the problem posed by speeding drivers in that hilly area of Route 6.

“I find [Route 6 speed] to be the biggest problem,” said Bill Washburn. “When they built [Route] 195 and took 60 percent of the traffic off of Route 6, the speed has picked up quite a bit.”

Hills pointed out on the map that Lot 60 is in the Marion Open Space Acquisition Commission’s care, which adds further restriction of what can be done in the area.

The Planning Board recommended Washburn study state regulations to egress involving Route 6 and the lane’s legal status in question.

Engineer David Davignon attended Monday night’s Planning Board meeting where he sought and got two Approval Not Required (ANR) decisions, 369 Wareham Street on behalf of Marion Lands Trust and at 28 Point Road for the Estate of Joan Winters.

Careful Planning Goes into ORR’s Basketball Seasons
Sports Roundup
By Nick Friar

After delaying the fall sports season to the designated Fall II due to COVID-19 concerns, Old Rochester Regional High School is back to hosting interscholastic athletics. The Bulldogs’ winter teams have held tryouts and started holding practices ahead of the designated start of the 2020-21 South Coast Conference sports calendar, which begins on January 5.

While Old Rochester sports schedules typically include some non-league competition, all Bulldogs winter contests will be SCC meetings. The lone exclusion is girls ice hockey, which participates in a different conference.

"The athletic directors from the conference have been phenomenal at working together throughout this," Old Rochester Athletic Director Bill Tilden said. "The reason that we wanted to play within our conference is that we’re all playing by the same rules, and that was easier and safer to do if we just rolled all of our direction together."

Both boys and girls basketball teams will play a nine-game regular season. There will be a postseason for Bulldogs basketball, but not in the same manner perennial Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association (MIAA) tournament contenders are used to. There will be SCC playoffs, which will last three rounds. However, there will be no state tournament for the 2020-21 winter season.

“Our goals have always been to compete and get better every day, to win the South Coast Conference, to qualify for the state tournament and make a good showing,” Old Rochester boys basketball coach Steve Carvalho said. “Some of that is still out there. As a coach, I just want to give these kids—some of them have missed the (2019-20) spring season [so] hopefully they have the Fall II season—I want to give them the best overall experience. But I also don’t want to take away from the competitive nature of showing our best face on a nightly basis.”

For Old Rochester girls basketball, this is an even stranger time with Rick Regan taking over as head coach following the end of Bob Hohne’s long, successful run with the program.

“We just have to adjust based upon current guidelines with COVID and how we’re doing things, but we want to continue to try to build,” Regan said. “The big thing is, there’s a good foundation here, and what we want to do is build on that. The key thing for us moving forward is getting more girls involved in the program because the numbers are a little bit lower right now, and COVID, I think, is playing a part in that, as well.

“It’s always, when you take over, a good three- to five-year process to get everything you want done and everything in. So, in that time, what we need to do is to build the program from the lower levels up. And that’s going to be my job, that’s what I have to do.”

On top of the abbreviated schedule, Old Rochester players and coaches need to stick to the guidelines established by the school to remain healthy. Otherwise, they risk the suspension of play, which could cost their team the season.

“I think everyone is being a lot more mindful now because there’s a lot more to lose if you have to quarantine,” said Meghan Horan, the lone senior in ORR’s girls program. “It’s not like you’re just quarantining from school. Now you would be missing sports—and I think everyone understands that—and they don’t want to be

Capital Planning Committee to Expand Focus
Mattapoisett Capital Planning Committee
By Marilou Newell

It’s been seven years since Mattapoisett voters endorsed the establishment of a committee to review the needs of municipal departments facing projects costing at least $10,000 and to chart the course of those expenditures...

I realize that I should take my cat to the vet annually to get a physical and whatever vaccinations may be due, but getting the cat into the cat carrier is a chore. Any hints?

Cats are not dumb. If they see the cat carrier come out they disappear. Some cats don’t mind the carrier if it is left out all year round. Feed them in the carrier, allow them to nap in it, let it be associated with more pleasant experiences than a car ride.

If you haven’t gotten the cat to think positively about the carrier, put the cat in a bathroom prior to getting the carrier out of the basement. That way the cat can’t disappear. Bring the carrier into the bathroom and keep the door closed so the cat won’t escape. Feliway is a pheromone that may decrease your cat’s anxiety when it is sprayed or wiped on the carrier.

over a period of five to 10 years.

No small task; yet, the effectiveness of the process has been proven. For the committee’s chairman and the town administrator, it is now time to expand the view.

Coming together for the first time in many months, the Mattapoisett Capital Planning Committee (CPC) is once again chaired by Chuck McCullough. The committee membership, those who have held seats at the planning table for years, and those who are new to the local process, include Ellen Driscoll, John Jacobsen, Mike Rosa, Bob Burgmann, Mike Dahill, Alan Apperson, and Van Cantor. Also attending the December 16 meeting was Town Administrator Mike Lorenco.

After introductions, McCullough detailed the work the committee was charged with performing, namely the study of departmental requests, including meetings with department heads and the Finance Committee and developing long-range spending schedules to smooth out large finance hits with a measured approach. McCullough said it was also time to review the bylaw that established the committee back in 2004 to ensure that it meets up-to-date planning needs.

While this meeting was more of an overview, a roadmap for the group to navigate the process, there were plenty of solid ideas. For example, Burgmann thinks including operating expenses is vital to understanding the financial impact that something might have on the coffers over time.

“We need to work more closely with department heads,” McCullough stated.

Lorenco, whose financial background and previous experience in drafting such planning models were noted, said, “We need to capture everything out there.” He said that, during an earlier CPC meeting with the Board of Selectmen, Finance Committee members, and other Tri-Town officials, it became apparent that the CPC needs to expand the earlier formats, “capturing” all types of big-ticket expenditures such as road and culvert improvements.

Schools were also part of the discussion, and Driscoll was tapped to become the conduit between the technical upgrades that both local and district schools may need and the CPC, with Lorenco saying, “We have to get ahead of that.”

Lorenco went on to say that he wants to “dig deep,” and that includes facility needs and structural issues facing town-owned properties. “This may not be the year for a lot of capital plan requests,” he said, citing the economic impact of COVID-19 on local, state, and federal funding. “Capital planning needs will have to be dire if it’s to be funded.”

Lorenco said that presently free cash stands at $400,000, an $800,000 shortfall created by a delay in tax revenue due to extensions related to COVID-19. But he felt confident that, as economics improve, by the Fall of 2022, finances would be in better condition.
Fiscal Year 2020 accounting closed about a month ago, Lorenco said, with auditors beginning their oversight work. He also said he would finish meeting with department heads and then give a full report to the CPC in January. “Then we can start making decisions on the town’s budget; I want to build a full budget by then.”

Dahill asked about an existing list of capital requests. McCullough said that a list dated May 2019 needed to be reviewed and edited to remove items and projects no longer needed. Lorenco added that he had asked department heads to update the list.

Regarding projects and purchases for which grants were sought but required matching sums from the town, Lorenco said the town should establish a fund for such expenditures and added, “We are going to apply for every grant we can, so we need a reserve fund.” McCullough agreed that everyone should be aware of grants being pursued to avoid “panic” when a town match is required.

On the subject of pending large projects, Burgmann asked about the roadway improvements for Main, Water, and Beacon Streets, a project long in the making. Lorenco said that federal TIP (Transportation Improvement Program) funding was being sought but had been pushed to 2023 and that no matching funds are required.

Burgmann replied, however, that the town would be responsible for 100 percent of the engineering costs and that the engineering firm must be available at all times during the construction phases.

Lorenco assured him that local firm Field Engineering would be at the ready but added, “There will be costs, though,” likening the arrangement to the unplanned increase in insurance premiums for the new fire station building. “Those costs need to be part of the operating budget.”

In closing out the meeting, McCullough said the most important thing is communication between all parties and the need for everyone to be “plugged in.”

The next meeting of the Mattapoisett Capital Planning Committee is tentatively scheduled for January 13 at 6:00 pm.

Connection to Wareham Focus of Pathway Project
Marion Pathway Committee
By Marilou Newell

On December 21, the Marion Pathway Committee met after a few months off to take up the matter of when, where, and how the town will connect bike paths and bikeways to the neighboring towns of Mattapoisett and Wareham. Yet with the plans each of the neighbors are now pursuing, one off the beaten path and the other along Route 6, Marion has big decisions to make.

Chairing the committee, John Rockwell reported the good news that design plans meeting the 75-percent goal for a section of bikeway that will connect to Mattapoisett’s Industrial Drive bikeway along a railroad easement out to Point Road had been submitted to the Massachusetts Department of Transportation on December 18.

“There’ll be a 90-day review period,” Rockwell said, which is likely to put the matter off schedule with Spring Town Meeting timing. He said that easements for construction would not make it into the warrant.

Rockwell also said that, after the MassDOT review, the proposed project would have to go through other agency reviews, further delaying the process by another 90 days.

“That means it would be six months before we could file a Notice of Intent,” said Rockwell. He added, however, that as designs stand now, they were ready for the permitting process. When asked about abutters, Rockwell also confirmed that three construction-related easements would be needed around and near Brew Fish restaurant.

Pathway Committee member Jeff Oakes reported that it is possible to have the project placed on the 2023 federal Transportation Improvement Program (TIP). Oakes also discussed what their neighbors to the east, Wareham, have decided.

Marion’s review of bike paths, saying that at first, people were positive about having bike paths and lanes, but emotions changed when other issues surfaced, such as cars traveling at high rates of speed and traffic volumes along such roadways as County Road, Delano Road, and Point Road.

“People became hostile,” Rockwell recalled. “They said, ‘We can’t even walk outside our door, never mind ride a bike.’” This sentiment, he said, had stayed with him. “I’ve been thinking about it, not being able to go outside your house without getting hurt.” He conjectured that sidewalks would be necessary if a bike path were to be constructed.

“Route 6 makes sense for Wareham,” Rockwell stated. He then wondered aloud how Marion would connect to Wareham if Route 6 was their plan. He asked the committee to take a ride along Point Road to Wareham and Point Road to County Road in Wareham. “Think about which is the best route for Marion.”

Member Paula Meere asked, “Doesn’t that force us to use Route 6 to connect [to Wareham]?”

“If they like one and we like the other, then more discussion will be needed,” Rockwell responded. He agreed that Wareham’s Route 6 plan was good for them because the route was basically flat from the Marion line to the village center.

“Getting everyone’s ideas is critical,” Rockwell told the committee. He shared that County Road would present issues, given its narrow layout and rates of speed.

Oakes also suggested that the committee look at the roadways in terms of their usage as commuter roadways versus country roads.

The next meeting of the Marion Pathway Committee was not set at adjournment.

To the Mattapoisett Community,

Although I am a member of the Mattapoisett School Committee, these are my personal views and are not intended to reflect the opinions or feelings of the other four committee members. I share these thoughts openly as a parent and resident of Mattapoisett. I am honored to serve this community on the Mattapoisett School Committee, especially in these unprecedented times. I believe my professional background in the financial services private sector, my life experiences as a mother of four young children, and my persistence to find common ground will benefit the school community at large. I am concerned for the health and welfare of my neighbors, my parents, and my friends. I am concerned for our community, including our teachers.

I am extremely disheartened by particular comments shared during the December 7 Mattapoisett School Committee meeting. The notion that there are two opposing groups—teachers and the community they serve—is a false ideology that I refuse to support. It is harmful, offensive, and, frankly, creates an unnecessary distraction from the real challenges before us. The teachers that are employed in Mattapoisett are part of this community. I believe that the teachers of the Mattapoisett school system are the magic behind the fabulous education that so many of us have factored into choosing to live in this community. And I firmly believe the Mattapoisett teachers and administrators care as deeply about the children in this community as the parents and guardians themselves.

Additionally, the implication that teachers have not ‘paid’ for this pandemic in the same way that many others have, such as layoffs, furloughs, lost wages, etc. is a spiteful mentality. The ways in which many of us have been impacted by this pandemic have been extremely challenging— even life altering. Our teachers are no different; some may have spouses, children, and many likely have elderly parents impacted by COVID-19. Some may be dealing with personal medical conditions or have medical concerns in their extended family. Teaching is their job, and although many tend to be quite passionate about their career choice, it remains only a component of who they are. First and foremost, they are human— and our decisions should not lose sight of that most central point.

I do not put my trust blindly into our teachers or this administration; they have earned my trust and respect over my five years in this community. I have witnessed them care for the wellbeing of my children, not just the ABCs and 123s, but the entirety of my children’s well-being. And while I will not rest comfortably on those past experiences as I fulfill my duties to ensure the best possible education is available to my own children and to all of your children, I do believe that foundation allows me to enter every single conversation and dialogue with respect and assumption of positive intent. I applaud the advocacy that has been displayed in our community throughout this year, as I believe it improves not only our decision-making process, but our decisions. I truly believe that every seat around this proverbial table, from the administration, to committee members, teachers, and families, all have the undeniable shared interest to bring ALL of our students back full time. Yet, I recognize that many may differ on the how and when to effectively return full time. These are ethical dilemmas with no clear right or wrong decisions. As we close out 2020 and head into 2021, I ask that our entire school community demonstrate to our children how to discuss, debate, and even disagree with civility and respect.

These past 10 months have been challenging for everyone. Like many parents and guardians of school-age children, I have experienced disappointment and frustration in relation to their education over the course of 2020. I am concerned for my children’s education, as well as their emotional and social wellbeing. But in this unprecedented year, I’ve come to realize that teaching and modeling for my children what it means to be a member of a community— how we make hard choices, embrace change and ambiguity, rise to meet the moments and challenges before us, and how we may sacrifice our own desires for the wellbeing of another— are the ultimate learning outcomes of the 2020-2021 school year. Our children will learn these lessons not only from their parents, guardians, and teachers, but from the entire Mattapoisett community.

Consistent with the direction laid out in August, the Joint Labor Management Committee has been meeting regularly and will continue to meet regularly to monitor the educational situations directly related to COVID-19. To the community at large: Please make decisions that will support the efforts to bring our students back in person safely and equitably.

Sincerely,
Carly E. Lavin, Mattapoisett

It’s fun, hands-on learning and achievement that puts kids in the middle of the action and prepares them for today, and for life. Scouting is a year-round activity that continues to meet with all safety protocols. Scouting is largely funded by donations; however, due to the lack of fundraising efforts in 2020, the Scouts of Marion Cub Scouts are asking our local friends and family to consider donating bottles and cans with a five-cent deposit to the Scouts from December 26 – January 3.

There is a large box located in one of our Scout family’s driveways located at 411 Front Street. We are hoping to raise funds to continue to ensure that Scouting in Marion can be as amazing for these Scouts during a pandemic as it is during normal days. We thank our friends and neighbors for supporting us in so many ways and we hope we can utilize these funds to help back to this amazing community. Sippican Historical Society

Marion (Old Rochester) is one of the oldest towns in the United States, and the Sippican Historical Society maintains an extensive collection of documentation on its historic buildings. In 1998, the Sippican Historical Society commissioned an architectural survey of Marion’s historic homes and buildings. Over 100 were cataloged and photographed. SHS will feature one building a week so that the residents of Marion can understand more about its unique historical architecture.

Part of the charming cottage at 312 Delano Road was built in 1750 by Harper Delano. The prominent Delano family, as well as the Briggs, Dexter, and Ellis families, were among the first families of Great Neck during the 18th century. A mold for making bullets for the War of 1812 was found in the basement of this house. During the War of 1812, the Delanos were well placed to witness barges carrying British troops from the Nimrod on its way to Wareham, where the crew burned a few houses in the village. By 1903, Amos Cornell owned this property. President Franklin Delano Roosevelt was related to the Marion Delanos.

Mattapoisett Projects Awarded Statewide Shared Streets Grant

Today, Senator Mark Montigny (D-New Bedford) in conjunction with MassDOT, announced that several recreational projects in Mattapoisett have been awarded funds from the Shared Streets grant program. Mattapoisett will receive $237,849 to provide a new, safe connection to the Mattapoisett Rail Trail and create a new safe route to Old Hammondtown Elementary School and areas of employment in Fairhaven. Today’s grant investments build off a $500,000 bond authorization that Senator Montigny championed in 2018 for the South Coast Bikeway Alliance.

As a response to COVID-19, MassDOT’s Shared Streets and Spaces quick-launch and quick-build grant program provides grants for cities and towns to quickly implement or expand improvements to sidewalks, curbs, streets, on-street parking spaces, and off-street parking lots in support of public health, safe mobility, and renewed commerce in their communities.

“Our regional bike paths are not only an unbelievable recreational asset, but they serve as a critical connection for people to get to school, work, and back home,” said Senator Montigny. “This investment from MassDOT will allow for more local connection between our regional bike path systems and for greater social, economic, and environmental benefits.”

Mattapoisett Library STEAM Projects To-Go

STEAM Projects To-Go brings a new project for January! STEAM Projects To-Go are created for busy teens grades 6 to 12 who still want to engage with library programming and their community. This month’s project will explore matter—anything that has mass and takes up space (or has volume). The project will be to fish for ice using ice, string, and salt. Further, it will inspire teens to take it one step further with a list of extension projects.

Each Steam Project To-Go includes supplies needed for the project, instructions, information about the theme, a library book related to the theme, and ideas for more projects. If you are interested in getting a STEAM to go project, register at the library’s website, mattapoisettlibrary.org, on the calendar, or by calling the library. Once you have registered, you will be contacted to arrange pickup (library card required). If there are no spots left, please register for the waiting list.

The Year in Review

By Rob Gonsalves
www.robsmovievault.com

So, how’s your year been?
If anything can be universally agreed-upon these days, it’s that 2020 has been the crappiest year in living memory (and as I write this, it still has ten days left to mess with us). One group of people who are particularly battered this holiday season are those who make, distribute and exhibit movies. Now, I know it’s hard for most of us to feel sorry for stars and executives who command and get seven- or eight-figure salaries. But the working folks, from the assistant focus puller to the stand-in to the ticket-takers at the Dartmouth Mall, are suffering. There are a lot of folks who never get mentioned on Oscar night who are the underpaid glue that holds the entire Hollywood contraption together. They’re hurting a lot more than Christopher Nolan is.

Nolan, of course, earned his envied position as the artistic rainmaker at Warner Brothers by delivering three insanely lucrative Batman movies, as well as a number of non-Batman movies that also made money. His latest film Tenet, now available on streaming and physical home media, was the first major motion picture to open in theaters exclusively during the pandemic and its attendant shutdowns. Nolan was very adamant about Tenet being the movie that would bring people back to theaters. Result: the movie ended up as #11 on 2020’s top box-office list, behind ten movies that came out pre-pandemic — and, in some cases, were leftovers from December 2019. The latter explains why 1917, a 2019 latecomer that didn’t get a wide U.S. release until January 2020, wound up #2 on the list.

As it stands now, Warner announced it’s going to release its 2021 movie slate on streaming (HBO Max) as well as in theaters, and Nolan and other Warner directors responded with much finger-shaking disapproval. They don’t quite get that the experience of watching a movie has changed, is not going back any time soon, and was already headed for that change even before the pandemic. COVID just hastened the exit of the genie from that bottle. But I’ve written about the logistical aspect of this before. What about artistically? What will it do to movies as an art form?

The short answer is that movies that share the sort of virtues that we associate with classic or at least top-quality cinema are increasingly moving to streaming, leaving the theaters to the tried-and-true blockbusters. It was getting increasingly hard to find a year-end box-office top-ten list that had a single film not based on existing media or a sequel or aimed at kids. Last year’s top-ten list had Disney in seven of the top eight slots. Serious drama and top-rank comedy has largely gone to TV — cable, streaming, even network TV. You’re going to find the 2020s equivalent to The Godfather Part II as a limited-series event on HBO or Hulu or Prime before you’ll find it at the multiplex. (Wanna feel really bad? In 1974, Godfather II made $57 million. That’s $313 million in 2020 money, which would have placed it at #10 on last year’s list had it been released then. But of course it wouldn’t have made that much in 2019. But it did 45 years earlier. Were movies better then, or were we?)

But then look at this year’s top ten, and Disney only appears once, for a movie it released in 2019. Let’s not get optimistic: the number-one movie of the year is still a very-belated Bad Boys sequel, which would not have happened in a year that was supposed to bring us a new Bond and two new Marvels. And you know it’s been a scrawny year for box office when the notorious flop Dolittle still made it to #7 on the list. But Dolittle came in just ahead of Little Women, with its respectable $70 million gross. The Call of the Wild is also on there, and whether or not you felt it was a decent representation of the book, what was the last year-end list where you saw Jack London and Louisa May Alcott adaptations?

I think the saddest story in 2020’s top ten belongs to The Invisible Man, which did well but could have done gangbusters. It should’ve been a word-of-mouth blockbuster thriller. And indeed it covered its small budget four times over on its opening weekend. But then COVID happened, and it was whisked from theaters and onto streaming. A movie like this really loses something when you watch it at home alone (though I still found it gripping) and not in a packed theater with the usual screamers and laughers around you making it a shared experience of dread and shock. That’s the kind of experience old-timers like me mourn about the old way of seeing movies. It might come back. But will we recognize it if it does?

Meditation During Stressful Times

On Tuesdays at 10:30 am, the Marion Council on Aging is offering a virtual meditation class held via Zoom. Stress has never been greater than it is right now. The pandemic has forced us indoors and has cut us off from the natural resources in our lives, such as time spent with family, friends, and beneficial activities. The good news is that meditation is a natural and effective way of quieting the mind and reducing stress. It can lower blood pressure and promote feelings of safety, peace of mind, and wellbeing. This class is perfect for anyone who enjoys the practice of meditation, as well as those who may be interested in learning how to meditate. You will be guided from the safety and comfort of your home by a dedicated meditation teacher with over 25 years of experience, Susan M. Pisapia.

This class is being funded by a generous grant from Coastline, Inc., the Massachusetts Executive Office

REBOOT 2020: A Virtual New Year’s Eve Celebration
Looking for a way to celebrate the new year in our socially distanced COVID-19 world? The First Unitarian Universalist Society of Middleborough invites you to REBOOT 2020 on Thursday, December 31, at 8:00 pm. Welcome in 2021 with over 20 acts of music, poetry, and song, featuring many talented musicians in a variety of acts from Ragtime to Broadway to Classical to Jazz. After you register, we’ll send you a free link that lets you “tune in” via the web! The show will stream on New Year’s Eve at 8:00 pm and will be available for a repeat viewing later.

REBOOT 2020 is the brainchild of tenor Tony Soares and recording technician Stephen Larrett. The idea blossomed as performers brought forward their acts: double flutes, singing, reading, guitar, trumpet, double bass, hammered dulcimer. Such a variety and combination of sounds and sights: dulcimer and flute partnered with spoken word, double bass singing Massenet’s famous “Meditation,” touches of jazz and Broadway standards. There are Blues in the Night as well as a Pajama Song.

From the Files of the Rochester Historical Society
By Connie Eshbach

Mrs. Annie L. Hartley, known as “Grandma Hartley” to many Rochester residents, was born in Rochester and lived here her entire life of 96 years. At the age of 18, she married James Hartley, 23, whose family came to Rochester by way of England and Fall River. Annie moved into 178 Snipatuit Road with her husband and continued to live there for many years after his death. In this home, she gave birth to 15 children, 13 of whom survived.

In 1939, a local paper reported on the Hartley family Christmas celebration. In that year, there were 79 Hartleys gathered in the old homestead for the family Christmas. Mrs. Hartley was mother, grandmother, great-grandmother, aunt, great-aunt, or mother-in-law to all who would be there.

The family tradition, of which this was the 54th year, was to cut down a tree on their own property. It would be brightly decorated and surrounded by presents. This scene had occurred at this homestead every year since 1889.

Of course, serving Christmas dinner to so many was a logistical challenge, but it was a challenge met by family cooperation. Each family group brought something to contribute to the spread, and everyone ate at the same time at tables set up in the three downstairs rooms. At the 1939 feast reported on in the paper, there were 38 grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren, 12 sons and daughters-in-law, and six grandsons and daughters-in-law.

My mother, born in 1920, would have been one of the grandchildren there. However, the Christmases she talked about were the ones held at the Grange Hall. When the family grew too big to gather at the house, they moved the celebration next door. She remembered that every grandchild received a present from their grandmother. To make that possible, all the grandchildren of the same age got the same gift, so the presents had to be all opened simultaneously. The picture with this article shows Grandma Hartley with some of her family, though not at Christmas.

Merry Christmas and, hopefully, a better New Year to all from the Rochester Historical Society.

Great Decisions Program
The Mattapoisett Woman’s Club “Great Decisions Program” will continue through a collaborative partnership with the Mattapoisett Library and Director Jennifer Jones. Great Decisions is produced by the Foreign Policy Association, and each year a current briefing book is available to support discussion. The goal is to reach informed decisions and opinions about world issues and policy. The Mattapoisett Woman’s Club has sponsored the Great Decisions Program consecutively for over 48 years; this is one of our Civic and Community Service outreach activities. We will offer the 8-week sessions on Wednesdays from 1:00 pm – 3:00 pm starting January 20 until March 10 by way of the Library’s Public Zoom system.

The deadline for registration is December 28, and we have a maximum of 25 participants.
The Topics are:
1. The role of international organizations in a Global
SALOME’S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Although taking advice isn’t always easy for the headstrong Sheep, you might want to consider what someone you respect says about an upcoming decision.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A new offer is tempting, but don’t be bullied into a quick decision. Rely on your keen Bovine business sense to alert you to anything that might be questionable.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Your Gemini Twin nature rallies to help you deal with this week’s hectic schedules, both in your personal and professional lives. One caution: Watch your diet.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Avoid rushing to make up for time lost on a stalled workplace operation. Best to set up a schedule and pace yourself. Welcome the help of colleagues.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Despite those glittering holiday distractions you love so well, be sure to keep your feline senses set on high to alert you to anything that might require fast action.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Making an effort to restore fraying relationships proves to be more successful than you dared hope. The holidays also bring new friends into your life.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Private and professional matters compete for your attention. Be honest in your assessment of which should get more of it, and for how long.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A seemingly endless list of must-do tasks is best handled by tackling them one by one, and taking energy-restoring timeouts between each job.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A vexing relationship seems destined to deteriorate no matter what each side tries to do. A third party’s advice just might prove helpful.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Reach out to ease any tensions caused by home or workplace pressures before they threaten the relationship-building progress you’ve made.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You often go out of your way to show kindness to others. So, don’t be surprised if other people want to do something nice for you this week.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) People in your life respect your Piscean wisdom, so don’t hesitate to speak up about a matter that you feel isn’t being handled quite the way it should be.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your personal warmth helps you make friendships, and your sense of fair play helps you keep them.

Giving Season and Holiday Happenings

The Marion Art Center continues its annual giving campaign through the holiday season. As a nonprofit organization, the MAC relies on funding from individuals and businesses in the community. The MAC has received generous support from members and donors during this difficult year, and we’re on our way to reaching our 2020 goal. Help the MAC hit the mark by sending in your donation of any size through our easy-to-use online form at marionartcenter.org/support. Your donation of $5, $50, or $5,000 will help sustain the MAC during the months ahead while we prepare to be fully operational again. We also accept gifts of securities. In the meantime, we will continue to offer reimagined programs and events while we await the safe reopening of our beloved theater, music, and children’s programs.

As our way of saying thank you, the MAC will roll out several virtual holiday offerings within the coming weeks to celebrate the season and the generosity of our donors. In December, we’ll feature a homemade snow globe project video tutorial with Benares Angeley of Childrens’ Art Lab at the MAC; a Winter Wonders family-friendly performance by Jackson Gillman – participatory songs and stories about shoveling, snowmen, snow angels, and nature in winter; a portion of the Tri-County Symphonic Band’s holiday concert, The Grinch, performed by Phil Sanborn and company; and John Heavey’s (Tabor Academy) recorded annual reading of The Grinch in a storytelling format. Programs will be released in mid-December. Stay tuned at marionartcenter.org.

Friends of the Mattapoisett Bike Path
The Friends of the Mattapoisett Bike Path are pleased to report that the community has responded enthusiastically to the Friends’ campaign to raise funds for the completion of the Marion Connector. To date, over 90 households have made contributions or pledges ranging from $5 to $25,000. Although contributions are still coming in and some pledges remain to be collected, the fundraising progress to date has enabled the Friends to issue the $95,000 commitment letter required for the project to be put out to bid in December.

“The generous support for this fundraising effort from so many people demonstrates just how important the completion of the bike path is to our communities,” said Bonne DeSouza, president of the Friends. “We expect the final totals for this campaign will be sufficient to provide some protection against cost overruns in the Marion Connector project, as well as permit the Friends to retain some of its cash on hand for future projects. The broad support for this campaign is encouraging to the Friends Board. It means there is wide backing for the work required to complete the remaining segments of the bike path.”

“The Town of Mattapoisett is very grateful to all those who are contributing to this campaign and making it possible to complete the Marion Connector in the near future,” said Mike Lorenco, Mattapoisett town administrator. “The fact that many contributions are from residents of other towns in the area is evidence of the regional importance of the bike path."

The “Marion Connector” is a half-mile bike and pedestrian path between the eastern end of Industrial Park Drive and the Marion Town line. (At the border, it will connect with a similar shared-use path to be constructed in the future by the Town of Marion.) It provides a trailhead with handicapped-accessible parking and access to the woodland trails of Tinkham Forest and the Aucoot Woods area. When Marion’s Pathway project (which is funded and currently in permit review) is complete, walking, running, and cycling on a paved shared-use path will be available between Point Road in Marion, Route 105 in Marion, and Industrial Drive in Mattapoisett.

The Friends is a 501 (c)(3) charitable organization, so contributions to the Friends for the construction of the Marion Connector are tax-deductible to the extent permitted by law.

Mattapoisett Land Trust Story Walks

Just in Time for you, your family, and friends to explore during the Holidays! The Mattapoisett Land Trust Education Committee, in collaboration with the Mattapoisett Library and the ORRHS Community Service Learning students, teachers, and parents, has installed two new, very stimulating story walks.

You will find them on the Dunseith Property off Route 6 by “Salty the Seahorse” and the Munn Preserve Property off Mattapoisett Neck Road, just before the entrance pillars of Antassawamock, to your right.

Not only are the walks exciting and fun, but there is also an emphasis on nature and scientific matter. Wendy Copps, MLT board director and Education Committee member, said, “The Munn Property Story Walk, A Green Day by Antoinette Portis, is a poetic conversation with nature and allows the reader to meander down the beautiful path to the conclusion at the beach on Brandt Island Cove.”

Mary Cabral, MLT director and Education Committee member said, “A great partnership has been established with ORRHS Community Service Learning Students and Karen Browning, Math teacher and advisor.” Mary said, “It is nice to be surrounded by positive and energetic young people while working on the beautiful Land Trust Properties.” The students worked on two separate Saturdays, October 24 and November 21.

Karen Browning said that she has lived in Mattapoisett for 25 years and never explored the Munn property. It has been because of Karen’s continued support of the MLT Education programs that we are most grateful for, as she spends hours and days helping to organize our events for the students, said Ellen P. Flynn, board director and chair of education. “Karen’s dedication to our organization is phenomenal.”

Our education mission is to enhance students’ environmental awareness through hands-on learning experiences in our community, and we believe their exposure to nature is essential for growth and development for a healthier life.

Wendy Copps also explains the Story Walk at Dunseith Property, the book entitled Rosie: Stronger than Steel by Lindsay Ward, is about a tractor, inspired by the women who acted with courage and strength in the American factories and British farms during World War II. “This story allows the reader to explore the forested area near a brook,” Wendy says.

Mike Huguenin, MLT president, said, “The Land Trust hopes these new story walks will encourage families to enjoy the outdoors and the MLT’s beautiful properties throughout the cooler months to come.” Mike believes we all need to focus and explore a taste for the use of our natural resources.

- Wednesday, January 27, 2021 at Sippican School, Marion
- Wednesday, March 10, 2021 at Rochester Memorial School, Rochester

The screening clinics are a service to young children and their families in Marion, Mattapoisett, and Rochester. If you question your child’s development in any of these areas, please contact Robin Mobley in the Early Childhood Office at 508-758-2772 ext. 1948 or 1942, or email doreenlopes@oldrochester.org for further information or to schedule a screening appointment.

SLT Reservation System for Osprey Marsh

Sippican Lands Trust has changed its reservation system for visits to the Osprey Marsh Accessible Boardwalk in Marion with reservations required only on Sundays of any given week. Monday through Saturday will be open for visitors to walk the Osprey Marsh Accessible Boardwalk, and those days of the week will not require a reservation to visit the boardwalk.

Sippican Lands Trust introduced its popular reservation system on June 4 to keep visitors safe during Covid-19 including those visitors using wheelchairs, strollers, or walkers. To make an appointment to visit the Osprey Marsh Accessible Boardwalk for an hour appointment on Sundays of any given week, please visit sippicanlandstrust.setmore.com. Please wear a mask and practice social distancing when exploring the Osprey Marsh Accessible Boardwalk during any visit.

SLT’s 1,800-foot Osprey Marsh Universally Accessible Boardwalk is located on Point Road in Marion. This project builds on the generous donation by members of the Smoyer/Howland family of the 20-acre Osprey Marsh property of forest and marshland on Planting Island Cove. The project has been designed to minimize environmental impact and to maximize accessibility for infants in strollers, older adults, and persons with mobility impairments, including those in wheelchairs. The universally accessible boardwalk proceeds from the Osprey Marsh parking area through maritime forest, wetlands, and fragile salt marsh habitat to a viewing platform overlooking Planting Island Cove.

Numerous SLT donors, members, and friends have stepped up to support this project including a $38,000 grant from the Town of Marion’s Community Preservation Commission for project design and permitting. The boardwalk was designed by Peter Jensen and built by local contractors, W.S. Bradford and Sherman Briggs.

Sippican Lands Trust continues to seek donations
A Powerful Prayer to the Holy Spirit

Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, who light all roads so I can attain my goals, you who give me the divine gifts to forgive and forget all evil against me, in this short prayer to thank you for all things and confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you, even in spite of all material illusions. I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. Say this prayer for 3 consecutive days. The favor requested will be granted. This prayer must not be published immediately after the favor is granted. Don't mention the favor. Only your initials shall appear at the bottom. G.L.

MAC Annual Giving Campaign
The Marion Art Center kicks off its annual giving campaign this week. As a nonprofit organization, the MAC relies on funding from donors and members. The MAC has come a long way since March when COVID-19 concerns forced the closure of the building and the cancellation or postponement of many programs. With its dedicated board, executive director, and volunteers, the MAC has continued to advance its mission and serve the community.

This year the MAC has introduced “The Virtual MAC” on the new MAC website featuring an online exhibit, video gallery tours, artist interviews, a virtual Readers Theater event, and ArtTalk @ the MAC (an online art discussion group); a community message board installed on the MAC patio; a COVID-safe version of Arts in the Park; the MAC’s annual outdoor artisan market; a reopening of the MAC galleries with a popular show “Vessels”, plus an outdoor meet-and-greet with artists; a successful, fun, first-ever Online Art Auction; and an outdoor theater production, “Good People,” in Bicentennial Park, with sold-out performances that received rave reviews. More innovative programming coming to the MAC this fall includes an exciting new exhibit featuring paintings by Mike Mazer and sculptures by Erik Durant, a reimagined COVID-safe Halloween celebration, and a new Young Artist Program to expand opportunities for student artists.

Donate to the MAC’s annual campaign today to help support the arts in our community at a time when it’s needed most. Memberships and the limited funds earned from programming this year cover only a portion of expenses. The Marion Art Center gladly accepts donations of any kind – general donations, annual pledges, stock gifts, memorial or legacy gifts, and the gift of growing the MAC family through membership. Donating online is easy at marionartcenter.org/support. Become a member of the MAC online at marionartcenter.org/join. Alternatively, checks can be mailed directly to the Marion Art Center at P.O. Box 602, Marion, MA, 02738. To find out more, visit the MAC online at marionartcenter.org.

Town of Marion: Online Building Permits Available
Building Commissioner Scott Shippey is pleased to announce that Marion residents are now able to obtain building permit applications online.

Residents can now complete building permit applications online by visiting the Building Department website at www.marionma.gov and clicking the “Online Permitting” tab in the left menu. A kiosk is also available for residents to complete building permit applications electronically at the Town House.

The Town’s permitting software is user-friendly, accepts electronic payments, and available 24 hours.

All homeowners who have not hired a contractor for a building project may choose to utilize this service by creating a personal account. A contractor can also complete the application online on the resident’s behalf. All types of building permits are available to apply online. Supporting documents can be uploaded and attached as needed.

Residents who wish to continue to submit paper permit applications will still be able to do so.

“We are excited to bring this new feature and make it easier for residents to complete their building permits online and support a greener, paper-free option,” Town Administrator Jay McGrail said. “We also think this is a good time to launch online permitting and urge residents to file permits electronically to keep business going while minimizing social contact during the coronavirus pandemic.”

Anyone who has questions about the online permitting process can call the Building Department at 508-748-7516.
