The 2025 Frosty Runner Road Race By Erez Ben-Akiva

The Frosty Runner Road Race, an annual longdistance run at Old Colony, matched its billing in its 12th year.

More than 280 participants came to the high school on Saturday, January 25 to complete the 10.5-mile or 5-kilometer circuit through a mid-20-degree chill. "Definitely lived up to the name of the frosty runner," Robert Norcott, the 10.5-mile men's winner, said. "Think we're all a little bit cold, little bit fatigued, but what a great day in January to get a good race in."

Norcott, 43, finished in 1:03:45. It was his first time running the Frosty Runner Road Race. "I just love to compete," he said. "I love running with somebody that's either chasing me or I'm chasing them."

With a cold wind across the route's hills and flat surfaces, Norcott, of Berkley, said the run was "very challenging." It was also his first time running a race that was specifically 10.5 miles long. "That .5 you really feel at the end," Norcott said. "It really tests your kick."

Linda Spooner, 50, finished the 10.5-mile race first among women, in 1:10:49. She is a multi-time winner of the yearly winter run through the streets of Rochester. "It's really everything somebody wants in a race," Spooner, of Sturbridge, said. "I love it."

The event also includes a 5-kilometer route. New Bedford resident Corey Hebert, a multi-time winner, placed first among men with a time of 17:32. The cold made the run more difficult than last year, Hebert, 31, said. It makes breathing harder, and muscles have to be warm to run efficiently. "Once you're in the race, it's not too bad, but on a cold, cold day like this, it can get to you a little bit," he said.

Westport resident Mary Cass, a previous winner, placed first for women with a 20:29 time. "It takes a hardcore runner to run on a day like today," Cass, 63, said.

Bethany Botelho first organized the Frosty Runner

ORRHS Holds Genealogy Celebration Spanning Generations

Superintendent Michael S. Nelson and Principal Michael Devoll are pleased to share that Old Rochester Regional High School celebrated its annual Genealogy Class Celebration on Wednesday, January 15.

The event, held in the high school library, served as the culmination of a semester-long genealogy course offered through the English Department. Students showcased their completed ancestry books, the result of extensive research conducted throughout the semester, to an audience of peers, family members, and community members.

Under the guidance of English teacher Kathleen Brunelle, students conducted research and utilized tools such as family search, historical newspapers, and genealogical databases. They also reached out to local city halls and libraries to uncover regional histories and compiled their findings into professionally designed ancestry books to preserve for future generations.

"The genealogy course at the high school has become a staple of our project-based learning initiatives," said Principal Michael Devoll. "Mrs. Brunelle has shared her passion and professional work in genealogical research with her students. It is wonderful to see the students sharing their research with their loved ones."

Adding some flavor and a cultural dimension to the endeavor, students brought in samples of special foods eaten by their ancestors at different points throughout the semester, sharing ethnic delicacies with classmates while working on their research. The Genealogy Class Celebration followed in this tradition, as guests and students shared a selection of dishes and desserts that honored the diverse histories of the participants.

English Teacher Kathleen Brunelle praised her students' dedication and creativity, noting the impressive depth of the genealogical findings included in their final projects.

"The ancestry books are more than just a grade they are a legacy for students and their families to cherish for years to come," Brunelle said. "This celebration is a true testament to the hard work and dedication these students have shown throughout the semester. It's also a unique opportunity for the students to get a taste of the culture and history of one another's ancestors."

Assistant Principal Lauren Millette called the Genealogy Class Celebration "a testament to Ms. Brunelle's inspiring passion for teaching" and a demonstration of the profound impact it has on her students.

"Listening to each student share their discoveries about their families was a truly unforgettable experience," said Assistant Principal Lauren Millette. "We are incredibly proud of our students and their remarkable work in Genealogy."

The Genealogy Class is offered each fall semester. It allows students to explore their personal histories while honing research, writing, and creative skills in a meaningful and collaborative environment.

"This celebration is a wonderful example of how learning transcends the classroom," Superintendent Nelson said. "Through this unique course, students have not only developed valuable research and writing skills but also forged meaningful connections with their families and community. It's a joy to see generations come

I Heard About this New Drug.... What Does The Doctor Say? By Dr. Edward Hoffer

Among developed countries, only the U.S. and New Zealand allow direct-to-consumer advertising by pharmaceutical companies and boy, do they take advantage of this opportunity! You cannot watch television with seeing ads for pharmaceutical products.

The FDA relaxed its guidelines on radio and television advertising in 1997, and the boom took off. In 2012, spending on traditional media (mostly TV) advertising by the pharmaceutical industry was $3.2 billion and by 2024 it hit $7.5 billion.

As eyeballs turned from broadcast TV to social media, pharmaceutical advertising followed. In addition to the $7.5 billion spent on traditional broadcast media, pharma ads on social media hit $19.5 billion in 2024.

Why do they spend so much money on these ads? Because they work. People hear about new "wonder drugs" and ask their doctors about them.

Product claim ads, the majority, give the drug's brand name (in large print) along with its generic name, the condition it treats and its benefits and risks. The benefits are up front and emphasized while the risks typically go by rapidly at the end. Cost is never mentioned.

Not surprisingly, there is no obligation for the ad to specify how the drug works or if there are competing drugs for the same condition that are safer or cheaper.

A fascinating study published in the Journal of the American Medical Association two years ago found that advertising expenses were much higher for drugs of limited benefit than for those with greater clinical benefit.

What should you do? If you think you have the condition the drug is supposed to help, it is perfectly OK for you to ask your doctor about it. They are in the best position to know if the drug might benefit you, if it is safe for you given any other medical conditions you have and medicines you are taking, whether there are better and/ or cheaper drugs to use instead and if you can avoid the need for any drug by making lifestyle changes.

I must note that doctors are also heavily marketed by big pharma and not immune to the siren call of glossy ads and free lunches brought by pharma's marketing representatives.

Remember, the purpose of any advertisement is to sell products. This is as true for pharmaceutical ads as it is for ads for cars or vacation time-shares. The primary goal of pharmaceutical advertising is not to help you but to sell more drugs, so take the claims with a large grain of salt.

Special Town Meeting Approves Key Proposals Amidst Debate Rochester Special Town Meeting

By Michael J. DeCicco

Rochester's Special Town Meeting Monday approved most of its warrant proposals, with notable exceptions and strong resistance to even some of the articles that did pass.

In a meeting highlighted by the new feature of a large screen hanging from the stage to visually present the articles, the crowded 250-person quorum began by easily approving transfers from available funds for a variety of needs around town. Voters endorsed $120,000 for new, safer sliding cell room doors, $3,225 for the town's share of the Plumb Library's plan to purchase a new more water-resistant and air-tight library book depository with an hydraulic-lift floor, $26,500 to fund costs related to post-closure landfill engineering, monitoring and surveying work, $175,000 to renovate the station's second floor to create additional office, meeting and storage space, and $30,000 to install new commercial grade kitchen flooring and replace the deteriorating in-floor grease trap at the senior center.

Voters then approved spending $100,000 of Capital Improvement Committee funds to replace the 1999 Highway Department sander truck with a used model that Highway Surveyor Jeff Eldridge said he will outfit himself to make it more usable.

However, a request for $55,000 from available funds for site work at the former Rochester Country Fair grounds on Pine St. where the new fire station will be built, sparked opposition before being ultimately approved.

Resident Timothy Fields led that push back by suggesting $55,000 of site work there will lead to a $30 million building according to a prior consultant's feasibility study. Resident Jeffrey Costa added the town does not need a $30 million public works project that would raise property owners' taxes.

Several town firefighters reacted strongly, noting that a new station safer for firefighters to occupy and closer to medical and fire emergencies that can house

important equipment now left outdoors is what the town needs. "When seconds matter, we would be wasting valuable time getting to your emergency," one town firefighter said. "We're talking a safer building for us and for you."

Town Administrator Cameron Durant responded that this is a 'not-to-exceed' amount that will allow the town to design the right facility for the town. The measure passed by a strong majority voice vote.

The meeting approved a move to change the Town Clerk from an elected to an appointed position, which would send the measure to an election ballot question in the spring, after push back from residents noting the town has voted down this proposal before. Durant argued the job of town clerk has gotten more complicated of late and it takes a full two-year term for a new town clerk to do his or her job. Electing a town clerk for a simple two-year term is not enough for such a professional position so important to running the town.

Voters then soundly approved allowing the treasurer to invest town trust funds such as for scholarships and the library in 'prudent' investments and a major revision of the town's Personnel Bylaw that clarifies the bylaw's scope, evaluation and grievance process, Family Medical Leave Act compliance, and adds a sick leave bank and a family leave policy.

Voters exempted town municipal buildings from a new state law requiring that no firearm, even a legally licensed one, may be brought legally into such facilities.

Turning to zoning bylaws, meeting members approved an amendment to the town's Battery Energy Storage Systems regulations to ban them from being built in the town's Groundwater Protection District and the Mattapoisett River Valley Watershed. They added to the bylaw governing Visual Screening of Solar Arrays in residential districts that said screening needs to be 100 percent, and they deleted 'Use Variances' from what is allowed under zoning bylaws.

The meeting, however, voted down proposals to add the regulation of short-term rentals and accessory dwelling units (ADUs). Proponent Richard Cutler, whose Zoning Bylaw Review Committee created both, argued these would impose some regulation of these residential uses. Residents argued back that the short-term rental amendment tries to solve a problem that does not exist. Planning Board chair Arnold Johnson said his panel has voted not to recommend the ADU bylaw because the new state law it is reacting to keeps changing. That state law allows ADUs by right on residential properties. The state, he said, keeps changing its regulations whenever it hears how MA towns and cities are writing its own rules in response to it. "The state keeps moving the goal posts," Johnson said. "It's a moving target." He said once the state regulations are in place in early February, then the town can tweak its own bylaw.

The town meeting adjourned after a record three hours in session.

Burr Not Seeking Re-election Marion Select Board By Jeffrey D. Wagner

New beginnings and one farewell were the theme of last Wednesday's Select Board meeting.

One police officer was promoted, and another joined the ranks. Meanwhile, Select Board member Carleton "Toby" Burr Jr. announced that he will not be running for re-election this year.

Select Board members applauded Burr for his service to the town.

Burr will complete his first and only term on the board before the start of the next election cycle in spring.

Alexandra Glew, who was appointed as a Student Police Officer last year, was named the town's newest police officer.

Police Chief Richard Nighelli noted that Glew worked as a regional dispatcher and won two awards for life-saving work. For one call, she directed family members how to give life-saving CPR to an elderly resident.

For another call, Glew helped direct a caller how to manage an emergency childbirth, as well as post-delivery instructions, according to Nighelli.

Officer Tyler Paquette was promoted to police sergeant as well last week. Paquette has worked as an officer in Marion since 2022. Prior to that he worked as a Town Administrator Geoffrey Gorman reported last week that progress is being made on the new Department of Public Works building, as well as the new harbormaster building - the latter having a working elevator.

Gorman and the Select Board also praised Harbormaster Adam Murphy and other safety departments, including the fire department, for their efforts on January 20 to save a duck hunter, who fell out of his boat 200 yards from Silverstein Beach.

The 19-year-old hunter managed to pull himself back on the boat, but Murphy reported to the scene and meeting hours, and the patience of Job at times, but at long last the Mattapoisett village streets roadway reconstruction project is moving into 75-percent design. Barring unknown and unknowable roadblocks (pun intended), several years from now Mattapoisett's village center will have gone through a metamorphosis.

Village Roads Project Greenlighted

Mattapoisett Select Board By Marilou Newell It may have taken 11 years, immeasurable

On January 28, the Select Board, in the presence of community members who did not object, voted to accept the 25-percent design. Now the project design can move forward with nearly all sticking points dispensed with.

Several years into the design process, the Select Board faced a public whose concerns centered around the loss of trees. It seemed at times that the more the community talked about the project pros and cons the further away from a consensus they drifted. But on this night, after an engineering presentation that spelled out how and why certain decisions had been made, the board members accepted the plan as presented with only small deviations.

VHB gave project updates that included confirmation that the Main Street section will begin at Tobey Lane, gas main to be replaced by Eversource, water main to be part of the TIP project with MassDOT providing installation, and the town to fund materials.

It was further decided that underground utilities were not feasible, raised traffic calming features would not be installed and that the creation of one-way traffic flow would not be part of the plan. Police Chief Jason King gave a presentation that highlighted the dangers inherent in one-way traffic flow saying he was opposed.

What had been a real hot button topic, the removal of trees, 31 at last count, met with little to no resistance on this night. Tree Committee Chairman Sandy Hering who has objected to the loss of trees said at the end of the public comment portion of the meeting that she was "disappointed with the plan." She said the plan didn't increase parking or address how to control traffic flow. But more significantly she said, "…people wanted to keep the look of the village." She also stated that pruning of trees that will be spared from being removed needed to be pruned now.

Hering also asked that the engineers look at permeable soils to help ensure the health and viability of new plantings. She received assurance that would be the case.

Sidewalks were a main topic as the meeting went on. According to the report the design now shows no sidewalk on the west side of Main Street between Route 6 and Depot Street while adding sidewalk on the south side between Pearl and Cannon, Mechanic and North Street. The complete report will available on the town's website.

The now $20,000,000 Transportation Improvement Project (aka TIP) is currently on the 2028 TIP list which runs from October 2027 to September 2028. A public hearing will be held in the spring of 2025.

Special Permit For Kabeyun Road Deck Marion Zoning Board of Appeals By Sam Bishop

The Marion Zoning Board of Appeals met Thursday, January 23 to discuss a continuance from the last meeting for a special permit for 17 Kabeyun Road.

Per notes from the board and abutters at the last meeting, an updated site plan was presented. The plan removes the deck on the east side of the property. This leaves an eight-foot deck on the west side of the house. The new deck would be seven feet beyond the required 15-foot setback. The owner is seeking a special permit for the west side deck, as it exceeds the normal limit. A survey team assessed setbacks, resulting in a proposed front setback of 27.1 feet for the new structure. A comparison of the proposed and existing structures showed the new building would encroach less into setbacks than the current one, reducing the encroachment by about 190 square feet.

The board confirmed that the special permit request is solely for the deck on the west side. There was some clarification on whether this deck would have the same dimensions as originally proposed, and it was noted that the only issue being discussed was the size of the deck in relation to the setback.

The board made sure everyone understood that the special permit was only about the deck. The meeting ended with a general agreement that the project was

Harbor Fees Needed For Operations and Urgent Repairs

Marion Marine Resources Commission By Sam Bishop

The Marion Marine Resources Commission (MRC) met on Wednesday, January 22 to discuss harbor management and other capital projects. This is the commission's first meeting in the new Maritime Center. It was stated mooring stickers will begin being issued February 3, with the current system being integrated into the larger existing mooring database to increase efficiency.

The commission initially discussed their joint meeting with the Select Board. While much was discussed, no solutions to current problems, such as parking at the harbormaster building, were presented. While this was the case, it was stressed the meeting was fruitful and more should be organized in order to solve problems.

Following this was a discussion on MRC's current powers and responsibilities largely being shifted to the police department, which the commission feels is inappropriate as they are not solely geared towards marine problems, like the commission.

Discussion on proposed harbor fee changes was raised, "like a 60 to $80 change." They also touched on a minimum fee for boats of at least 25 feet. Discussion was raised over the harbor's many dinghies below or straddling that length and as to whether they should also be charged the minimum fee. Some where concerned they would be paying both a harbor fee and a yacht club fee. It was said as yacht clubs are non-commercial, they are not supposed to charge for docking spaces beyond regular maintenance. Commission emphasized "fairness and logic" in charging the same fees across the board, especially given that the harbor struggles to cover the costs of some services. One concern is the potential pushback from boat owners who would have to pay an additional fee for smaller boats like tenders, despite already paying a mooring fee. The idea of adjusting the fees to something more affordable, like $50-$100. This was all discussion-based and nothing was set-in-stone as of yet.

An important safety concern was raised regarding the man who recently fell overboard on January 20. The rescue operation was successful, but it highlighted the need for better safety measures. "We had to act quickly; the oil in the boat was like molasses," Aiden O'Leary recalled.

Later, the discussion turned to the shellfish propagation program. The town plans to increase its budget to purchase larger shellfish stock, ensuring a rate of survival. I was stated this program has been well received with volunteers encouraged to assist with ongoing efforts.

There was also the focus on the aging infrastructure at Old Landing. The current floats, while durable, require regular maintenance. The town is exploring options to replace them with stronger and more sustainable materials, pending budget approvals. Bird Island Lighthouse was also said to require urgent repairs to prevent further deterioration. Discussions are ongoing about potential funding sources, including donations and grants.

There will be a public meeting held Thursday, January 30, to discuss local regulations. The commission discussed the meeting's notices not being received by

Eversource Substation and Subdivision Plan

Rochester Planning Board By Michael J. DeCicco

Rochester's Planning Board Tuesday continued its two outstanding hearings to its next meeting after reviewing new information both good and bad.

It's hearing into the special permit for a new Eversource Energy substation at 214 Rounseville Road yielded news that the company is cooperating with the abutters to answer their concerns about the development of the site. Eversource representative Dan Higgins reported that he has spoken to the abutters in response to town consulting engineer Ken Motta's suggestion that the company seek the viewpoint of the neighborhood.

Higgins said the neighbor at 212 Rounseville Road wants Eversource to get rid of all the existing trees there and put in other plantings that that resident might prefer. The owner at 204 Rounseville Road also has some concerns that Eversource is looking to address.

Board chairman Arnold Johnson instructed Higgins to submit a new landscaping plan once his work with the neighbors is done. Fellow Eversource representative Heather Sykes asked the board to approve the project on the condition that the company would continue to work with the abutters. The board did not agree to this but instead Continued the hearing to February 11.

Next, because of a problem with abutters notices, the board continued to that date its Definitive Subdivision plan hearing regarding dividing a 28-acre parcel at 386 Snipatuit Road into a two-acre lot. The plan here is to create frontage on Snipatuit Road containing an existing home and two new lots with frontage on a new roadway to be named Peter Crapo Cartway. Johnson said not all abutters received hearing notices originally. Letters to the correct number of abutters were only sent out the day of the hearing, he said. For this reason, the board moved for this continuance.

In other action, the board reviewed a Notice of Intent to convert agricultural, Chapter 61A land at Forbes Road and High Street into non-chapter uses and voted to recommend to the Select Board that the town not exercise its legal right to purchase the property.

Neck Road Solar representative Hank Ouimet reported progress on plans to erect adequate screening for the solar installation being built on that road. He said he is willing to agree to a 14-foot-high fence on top of his berm on Neck Road but that the structure needs to be built of horizontal wood sections not in the form of solid stockade. He said a Federal program granting him permission to combine a solar farm and an agricultural use there wants what is grown there to have sunlight at the right times of day. A fence with lateral slat openings would accomplish this purpose. Johnson said he was amenable to this plan and agreed with Ouimet's suggestion to begin by putting up a 'test fence' of that material.

The Rochester Planning Board's next meeting will be Tuesday, February 11 at 7:00 pm at Town Hall, 1 Constitution Way.

first meeting if his tenure as a commissioner on the Mattapoisett Conservation Commission. The light agenda granted time for Chairman Mike King to explain a few fine points of the job. One such point was "special conditions."

Depending on the type of filing coming before the commission, this determines the type of determination the commission may approve. In the case of Notice of Intent filings, conservation commissions may approve a filing with conditions set to ensure that environmental conditions are protected. King explained that the environmental agent Brandon Faneuil had at the request of the commission, established a set of conditions known as "special standard conditions." These conditions are standard because they are often used to permit applications, they are also "special" because they are somewhat more restrictive and or, include more conditions than is generally proscribed.

Receiving an order for conditions on this night was a Notice of Intent filing by KLG Realty Trust, 15 Beach Street for the construction of an accessory garage. The applicant was represented by Matt Leone of Schneider Davignon and Leone.

Leone said the project includes a paved driveway, flood water vents, and a roof run off system. He also noted for the commission that the owners are considering using the garage as an ADU in the future.

Standard special conditions were ordered for an NOI filed by Paul V. Walsh Jr., trust. 113 Angelica Avenue for the construction of a new signal family home.

Also represented by Leone, the new home will be elevated, featuring vents for flood water and storm surges. Roof runoff will be handled with an infiltration system he noted. The demolition of two existing structures was discussed and the need to follow established protocols for waste removal.

A new septic system was approved for 9 River Road, Ronald Oliveira. The entirety of the project is located in buffer zones and riverfront jurisdictional areas.

The commission voted to establish the 2025 meeting calendar with the first and fourth Mondays remaining as meeting days held at 6:30 pm.

Protections For Diving Terrapins Marion Conservation Commission By Sam Bishop

The Marion Conservation met Wednesday, January 22 to discuss two continuances from former meetings as well as discussions on three other properties.

The commission first discussed the continued hearing for redevelopment of the boat storage facility at 366 Wareham Street. The project's representative from LEC Environmental Consultants explained the project had been delayed as it awaited a response from Natural Heritage. They have since received recommendations, including protective measures for diving terrapins. Measures would include installing barrier fencing before June 1 to prevent terrapins from nesting during construction. The measure was unanimously approved by the commission.

The property of 49 Water Street, which had previously had a project approved in the fall of 2024, was discussed. A revised pool plan was presented by the new property owner, who moved the pool north to preserve an existing patio. The pool remained outside the 100-foot coastal buffer zone, though there was a minor change in elevation due to grading. The revised plan was accepted as a minor change to the original approval.

The next meeting of the Marion Conservation Commission will be held Wednesday, February 12 in the Marion Police Department Conference Room.

He acknowledged the contributions of the administrative team, many of whom were present at the meeting to support discussions on the agenda items, and he expressed gratitude for their dedication to the district's goals.

The superintendent also provided a mid-year update on the progress of the current school year and connected this work to the district's Vision 2028 plan. He noted the importance of the monthly newsletters sent from his office to help keep committee members informed in real time. The five-year strategy sets to inspire students to "think, learn, and care." Nelson expressed enthusiasm about the plans ahead and the joint efforts that would ensure their success.

Following the superintendent's comments, Project 351 presentations from acclaimed students commenced. The state-wide initiative sets out to encourage youth leadership and community service. In Memory of David Kendall Pierce, September 21,1949 to January 14, 2025.

David Kendall Pierce, a deeply respected member of the Tabor Academy and Tri-Town communities, passed away peacefully on the morning of January 14, 2025.

With a legacy that spanned decades, David's contributions to Tabor, the School by the Sea—as an educator, mentor, and coach—will long be remembered. David joined Tabor in 1973, bringing with him a remarkable passion for education and science. He played an instrumental role in establishing the school's observatory and developing the astronomy program, which allows students to explore celestial phenomena through a state-of-the-art Celestron telescope. As the chair of the Science Department, David transformed the curriculum, introducing innovative courses and fostering a love for critical thinking and inquiry in his classrooms. His leadership and vision extended beyond the classroom, inspiring generations of students to pursue studies and careers in scientific fields.

Known for his meticulous yet engaging teaching style, David taught Advanced Placement Physics, Advanced Calculus, Astronomy, and Geology, often infusing his lessons with humor and thought-provoking anecdotes. Students recall his ability to make complex concepts accessible and commitment to their potential to achieve excellence. He even authored physics texts and laboratory manuals for use in Tabor classroom, working with students to ensure that all levels of science could understand the concepts.

Beyond academics, David's dedication extended to coaching and mentoring. As the head coach of the varsity track team, the advisor to the junior varsity riflery team, and the Christian Fellowship Club. He advised the members of the WTBR radio station where he shared his love of 1960s music by hosting a program of oldies hits called, "A Blast from the Past." In addition, he served as a dorm parent in numerous houses, including Hunt House, Lillard Hall, and Daggett House, where he instilled discipline, perseverance, and a sense of community, leaving an indelible mark on Tabor's traditions.

At Tabor, the David Kendall Pierce Chair Award in Math and Science is awarded to faculty members annually; it was established in his name by Jack Boyd Smith, Jr. '76. Smith wanted to recognize and honor the impact that David had on him while a student at Tabor. Pierce himself was the first holder of the award.

David's influence was not confined to campus. His dedication to service and professional development was evident in his involvement with the Advanced Placement Math Teachers Association, the Massachusetts Association of Science Supervisors, and the National Science Teachers Association. David's work in advancing the use of technology in science instruction, including presentations on the use of graphing calculators and simulations, positioned Tabor as a leader in STEM education.

Beyond Tabor, David's intellectual pursuits and personal interests painted a portrait of a life well-lived. A graduate of the University of Vermont and Dartmouth College, he brought academic rigor and a love of learning to every endeavor. He was a man of diverse talents — quoted sharing insights from figures like Robert Frost, Albert Einstein, and promoting inclusivity. Students from the meeting shared how the initiative has shaped them into better leaders, with one mentioning it teaches participants to "be energy givers" in their communities rather than "bad apples." Through peer-led discussions and partnerships with other schools like Dartmouth, the committee excitedly claimed Project 351 continues to expand its reach and influence in empowering young leaders - skills they will carry into adulthood and community betterment.

Following these presentations came more updates on Vision 2028, the five-year guideline for schools going forward. Successes from the guidelines first year, 2024, included the "portrait of a graduate" framework to better define skills students should have by graduation. This was informed by surveys to both students and parents, as well as local business leaders. Professional development (PD) and curriculum review was also touched on, highlighting the focus on collaborative curriculum development as well as new PD strategies to better align with the aforementioned district goals.

Going forward, the district will be focusing on refining and honing these programs in order to better integrate them into schools. Nelson stressed Vision 2028 is a "living document," meaning the initiative will be changed and adapted through data accumulation and feedback.

The next meeting of the Join School Committee will take place midway through the summer, on June 12, following the end of the current school year.

James Emery Wilson "Jim" of Easton, CT and more recently of Mattapoisett, MA, passed away peacefully on January 24, 2025, at the age of 93 with family by his side.

An open letter to the residents of the proposed Marion Village Historic District:

This is a follow up to the recent public meetings where several people voiced concerns about the proposed historic district bylaw. As chair of the Marion Historical Commission, the town's appointed preservation board, I hope I can reassure you that your concerns are being fully acknowledged and addressed by the Study Committee.

There are several key points that bear further emphasis:

-Preservation projects your investment in your property and adds value to your property and all properties in the district because it prevents offensive new intrusions from changing the character of the area.

-The purpose of the bylaw is to protect you from developers or others who presently have free rein to demolish, build and alter in any way they chose. Just imagine what could happen to the property next door or across the street from you in a worst-case scenario... multi-unit condominiums or enormous houses that are far larger than anything else on the street. As it stands now, anyone can build anything; it only has to comply with zoning restrictions and those often are not enough to insure suitable scale and massing.

-Historic district legislation has been in existence since the 1950's. It is a highly successful planning tool that protects historic villages throughout the state. Our version is extremely generous in terms of the number of specific exemptions it includes, making comparisons to Nantucket or Beacon Hill erroneous and inapplicable. Think instead are sailing.

TRITOWN HAPPENINGS

On Saturday, January 25, St. Gabriel's Church Youth Group in Marion, hosted a Spaghetti Dinner to raise funds for our summer mission trip to North Carolina for hurricane relief efforts. Our team of 20 teens & 6 adults made all of the food and served the meal. We had a sold-out event! It was a fun evening of good food, great fellowship & awesome live music. We had a very successful night, and we are closer to our goal. You can help us to help the hurricane Helene victims by donating at givebutter.com/5id2pB. All monies donated go to teens on the mission. Teens doing amazing things. Photo by Tanya Ambrosi.

of the lovely towns of Hingham, Duxbury, or Westport... just a few examples where local historic district bylaws continue to preserve and enhance the aesthetics and value of the community.

-In response to comments at recent meetings, we will reformat and expand the Design Guidelines to ensure predictability and accountability in the design review process. It is intentional that Design Guidelines are included in the bylaw so there will be no uncertainties as to what they are.

-With the help of these Guidelines, the review process is clearly defined and is not cumbersome or arbitrary.

-Members of the Review Board will have professional qualifications in design and construction trades and will also receive trainings from the MA Historical Commission. We are also recommending that three out of five members be appointed from within the district. The goal of the review process is not to be an obstruction. It is to reach consensus in a way that preserves what everyone loves about the Village.

-Now is the time to support a historic district in the Village, BEFORE its character deteriorates any further from additional demolition and oversized new construction.

-Remember: Historic districting protects your investment in your property and adds value to your property and to all properties in the district.

Movie Review

Look Back in Sadness

By Rob Gonsalves www.robsmovievault.com

Oh, Canada. Starring Richard Gere and Jacob Elordi. Directed by Paul Schrader. Running time: 91 minutes. No MPAA rating. Now available on streaming and physical home media.

We're probably not going to get very many more Paul Schrader films, which makes his latest one, Oh, Canada, saddening for reasons beyond its morose subject matter. Based on a novel by the late Russell Banks, whose work Schrader adapted once before in 1997's Affliction, the movie focuses on acclaimed documentary filmmaker Leonard Fife (Richard Gere in old age, Jacob Elordi in younger days), who is dying of cancer and wants to unburden himself before the cameras of some former students. During the Vietnam War, Leonard was one of many young men who crossed the border from America to Canada. But was it really as simple as a gambit to avoid the draft?

With Schrader, nothing is simple, especially in the portraits of conflicted men (First Reformed, The Card Counter, Master Gardener) he's been painting in recent years. Oh, Canada positions itself in the same gallery, and it's helped considerably by a brittle, not often sympathetic performance by Gere, reuniting with Schrader 44 years after American Gigolo. Gere's Leonard has insupportable guilt that he hopes to exorcise by speaking on camera directly to his wife Emma (Uma Thurman). The problem is that Leonard doesn't have nearly as much to be ashamed of as the protagonists of Schrader's previous three films. Leonard is a selfish bastard, yes, but not responsible for death or torture.

What may get to us in Oh, Canada is mostly extratextual. In the past few years Schrader has contended with long COVID as well as the slow decline of his wife from Alzheimer's. If we know these things, added to Schrader's stated desire to make his "mortality film" before it was too late, we may be inclined to give the movie the benefit of the doubt. Schrader changes up the look of the film and at one point even puts Gere in a scene with the younger Leonard's wife, reflecting Leonard's scattershot, medication-fuddled recollections. Oh, Canada finds the writer-director looking back with a cornucopia of mixed feelings.

After all, the final image is of a young Leonard, having departed for Canada, in a pose of freedom. Leonard ended up finding a good, creative life, though it was built on callousness to some extent. We gradually learn the source of Leonard's secret shame — that he left not one but two wives and children in the dust. Again, that's bad, but it could certainly be worse. As the visibly failing Leonard is literally wheeled from his deathbed to a room where the filming of his life is taking place, his wife Emma, whom he needs around constantly, starts to regret the whole idea behind the film. Emma wants the film to be a tribute to Leonard, whereas he wants it to be a final testament.

Schrader is aware of the ticking clock, the falling calendar pages. So I would like his swan song, hopefully many years in the future, to feel more substantial than this does. Oh, Canada was shot in 17 days, and it sometimes shows. The elsewhere charismatic Jacob Elordi doesn't ring any bells as a supposed younger Gere. The movie has many of the unfortunate earmarks of a production limited to the scant resources Schrader had available. And no matter how much Schrader jumps back and forth in time or engages in unreliable-narrator stylistics, he can't take us into Leonard's consciousness the way Russell Banks did. Oh, Canada is best viewed as Schrader's way of revisiting (not rehashing) old haunts like American Gigolo and Affliction – either of which you might get more out of than this wellmeaning but murky and thin-feeling film.

Please attend the Public Hearing on February 18 at 5:30 at the Benjamin Cushing Community Center, 465 Mill Street.

All Marion voters are invited to attend and learn more about the reasons why the Historical Commission and the Historic District Study Committee ask for your support of the bylaw at May Town Meeting.

Sincerely, Meg Steinberg, Chair Marion Historical Commission

SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Your batteries should be fully recharged by now, making you more than eager to get back into the swing of things full-time. Try to stay focused so that you don't dissipate your energies. TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You're eager to charge straight ahead into your new responsibilities. But you'll have to paw the ground a little longer until a surprise complication is worked out.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Rival factions are pressuring you to take a stand favoring one side or the other. But this isn't the time to play judge. Bow out as gracefully as possible without committing yourself to any position. CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Reassure a longtime, trusted confidante that you appreciate their words of advice. But at this time, you need to act on what you perceive to be your own sense of self-interest.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You need to let your warm Leonine heart fire up that new relationship if you hope to see it move from the "just friends" level to one that will be as romantic as you could hope for.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) There's still time to repair a misunderstanding with an honest explanation and a heartfelt apology. The sooner you do, the sooner you can get on with other matters.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Expect a temporary setback as you progress toward your goal. Use this time to reexamine your plans and see where you might need to make some significant changes.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Some missteps are revealed as the cause of current problems in a personal or professional partnership. Make the necessary adjustments, then move on.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Jupiter's influence helps you work through a pesky problem and allows your naturally jovial attitude to reemerge stronger than ever. Enjoy your success!

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Set aside your usual reluctance to change, and consider reassessing your financial situation so that you can build on its strengths and minimize its weaknesses.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Some recently acquired information helps open up a dark part of the past. Resolve to put what you've learned to good use. Meanwhile, travel plans continue to be favored.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Act on your own keen instincts. Your strong Piscean backbone will support you as someone attempts to pressure you into a decision that you're not ready to make.

BORN THIS WEEK: You embody a love for traditional values combined with an appreciation of what's new and challenging. You're quite well-rounded.

Avian Flu, Commonly Known as Bird Flu

H5N1 or "Bird Flu" is a naturally occurring virus among wild aquatic birds, also known as wild waterfowl, throughout the world and can infect domestic poultry like chickens, ducks, and turkeys. Infected birds may or may not become sick but can infect other fowl. The virus is shed through saliva, nasal secretions, and feces. It is often present in natural water sources frequented by wild waterfowl. Domestic poultry may become infected with H5N1 when natural water sources are frequented, and when in contact with wild waterfowl. Protective actions include:

-Avoiding contact with suspected sick wild waterfowl and domestic poultry and observe them only from a distance.

-Keep backyard domestic poultry away from wild waterfowl and natural water sources frequented by wild waterfowl.

-Implement biosecurity plans.

If you find a dead bird (wild waterfowl or domestic poultry), avoid contact. To report dead wild waterfowl or domestic poultry, call 617-626-1795 or online at mass.gov/reportbirds. Other types of birds, like songbirds and backyard birds, are rarely affected and should only be reported if there are 10 or more dead birds.

Symptoms in wild waterfowl and domestic poultry include sudden death without clinical signs, incoordination, diarrhea, lack of energy or appetite, decreased egg production, purple discoloration of wattles, comb and legs, nasal discharge, coughing, and sneezing.

It is safe to eat properly handled and cooked poultry in the United States. There are recommendations regarding other products from other animals that may be infected with H5N1 available online at CDC.gov. H5N1 can be found in products such as raw milk. Pasteurized milk is safe to consume.

A Sousa Spectacular

On Sunday, February 2 at 3:00 pm, the Tri-County Symphonic Band, under the direction of Philip Sanborn, will offer a salute to the "March King", John Philip Sousa. The Sousa Band toured from 1892 to 1931 and performed 15,623 concerts, both in America and internationally. The Tri-County Symphonic Band will present a concert much like a typical performance by the Sousa Band of the early twentieth century. There will be an array of Sousa marches as well as a Sousa overture, fugue and collection of waltzes. As was the practice of that era, pieces from other composers will also play a prominent role in the presentation. Aaron Copland's "Outdoor Overture" will begin the concert. A piece by New Hampshire composer Andrew Boysen Jr. (written in 2012) entitled "Coming Home" will be performed, as well as an arrangement of selections from George Gershwin's opera "Porgy and Bess." The concert will conclude with Jean Sibelius' masterpiece "Finlandia."

The concert will be held at the Keith Middle School Auditorium, 225 Hathaway Boulevard, New Bedford, MA 02740. Adult tickets are $15 in advance or $20 at the door. Children aged 12 and under admitted free. Tickets may be purchased in advance at The Symphony Music Shop in Dartmouth, The Marion General Store in Marion or online at tricountysymphonicband.org

The Frosty Runner Road Race was held in Rochester on January 25. Photos by Robert Pina.

After learning how to build a snake hibernaculum, a beaver lodge, and a bear den, the group tried their hand at creating miniatures for museum display. The beaver lodge was tested to see if it held water back and still kept the lodge dry inside. It was a huge success! Feel free to come in to view any of these creations during the museum's open hours. Photos courtesy Elizabeth Leidhold.

TTAR's Creative Expression Contest

Tritown Against Racism (TTAR) is excited to announce our sixth annual Black History Month Creative Expression Contest is wrapping up and the exhibition and awards presentation is fast approaching. TTAR aligns the contest each year with the theme chosen by Association for the Study of African American Life and history. The 2025 contest theme is African Americans and Labor. All art submitted for consideration will be placed in an exhibit at the Mattapoisett Library through February, Black History month. The contest was open to any Junior or Senior High School student attending school or living in the Tri-Town during the 2025 school year. Entries could be of any medium but no larger than 16 x 20 in size. This year's contest also includes art submissions from elementary-aged children in the area as well. Any remaining entries can be dropped off to Mattapoisett Public Library during regular library hours by January 31 at 4:00 pm. Community members are invited to attend the exhibition opening reception in the Mattapoisett Library Community Room on Saturday, February 8, from 2:00 pm to 4:00 pm where winners will be announced and cash prizes will be awarded. Snacks and light refreshments will be served. Email info@tritownagainstracism.org with questions.

Rochester Christian Learning Center

Rochester Christian Learning Center is a homeschool cooperative for Grades K-8, located at First Congregational Church of Rochester. Homeschooling is a growing popular option for parents who want to directly educate their children. A Learning Center is an organized group of homeschooled children that meet at a facility sponsored by an organization such as a church. The advantage of a Learning Center is that families can pool their resources to help with their children's education and activities. Parents remain the primary educators of their children.

To learn more about Rochester Christian Learning Center for the 2025-2026 academic year, please visit the website www.RochesterChristianLC.org. Tours of the facility are available upon request.

Hello from Plumb Library

Everybody knows that libraries loan out books, magazines, and movies, but did you know we have things? Nearly all libraries have special collections that are usually referred to as the Library of Things. These "things" range from puzzles to telescopes, wi-fi hotspots to lawn games, and more.

The Library of Things at Plumb Library currently consist of a tabletop telescope, snowshoes for kids, T-Mobile wi-fi hotspots, a ukulele, a yarn winder, a killa-watt kit for measuring electrical use in your home, and MOBY backpacks for outside activities and exploration. All these are available for check out with an adult library card (except the yarn swift). Some items require that you sign a waiver form. All of these items circulate for one week and are subject to overdue fines. We hope to be adding more items to our collection in the coming months, so keep an eye out for that announcement. Feel free to check out other area libraries for even more things.

Library cards are required for checkout. If you have lost your card, it can be replaced for a $2.00 charge. A great way to make sure you always have your card with you is to upload it to the SAILS Mobile app. It's quick and easy and we're happy to show you how it works.

MCC Shrove Tuesday Pancake Supper

The Mattapoisett Congregational Church's annual pancake supper honors the Christian tradition of eating pancakes on Shrove Tuesday, when people use up rich foods like eggs, butter, and sugar, which will be given up during the Lenten fast. In some regions, Shrove Tuesday is known as "Fat Tuesday" (Mardi Gras) for the same reason. This is a day to indulge before the solemn period of penitence and abstinence during Lent, which begins the following day on Ash Wednesday.

All are welcome to attend on Tuesday, March 4 from 5:30 pm to 7:00 pm, in Reynard Hall, 27 Church Street in Mattapoisett. Pancakes, sausage, toppings, and beverages will be served.

For more information, please call the church office Monday-Thursday 8:00 am to 1:00 pm at 508-758-2671.

Freewill offering will be accepted to support the ministry of Mattapoisett Congregational Church.

From the Files of the Rochester Historical Society By Connie Eshbach

Many of the ideas for these articles come from newspaper clippings in the museum archives. Unfortunately, more than 2/3rds of them are missing their dates. However, with a certain amount of research, it is sometimes possible to come up with an approximate time frame. For this article I determined that J.C. Albert Langevin was Acushnet's police chief in the 1940's and passed away in 1952. Also, when I went to take a picture for this article, I saw that the current bridge was built in 1959. All of this gave me an approximate time period in which the story took place.

That said, the events in the newspaper article probably took place one early morning in the mid to late 1940's at the Old Town Bridge as it crosses Main St. just past the New Bedford / Acushnet line. The bridge at that time had a stonewall railing on each side. The railing height began at 11 inches, rose to 3 feet and then went down to 11 inches. (today's bridge has heavy concrete railings that go straight across and are at least 5 feet high).

So very early one morning, two young men, Robert Doane and Paul Gibbs, both from Marion Rd. in Rochester were returning from a dance in New Bedford. Robert had borrowed a car, a cabriolet, from Frederick H. Wood, who also lived on Marion Rd. As Robert was driving east on Main St. and approaching the bridge, the front tire blew out. The car swerved to the right and started to go up the south railing. As the newspaper article says, "the car continued its mad plunge" until it hit a telephone pole cable which caused the front of the car to swerve around. This prevented the car from plunging 25 ft. into the shallow river below. The heavy car then came to a stop resting "dead center" on the bridge railing with all four of its tires off the pavement.

As Robert Doane sat behind the wheel, no doubt stunned that they were still upright, his passenger, Paul Gibbs, who had been asleep, woke up and unaware of what had just happened opened his door to exit the car. He stopped "paralyzed" by the 25 ft. drop that confronted him.

> As Police Chief Langevin said it was nothing short of a miracle that neither young man was injured.

Unfortunately, Wood's car was not so fortunate. Both the front end and undercarriage were severely damaged. After daybreak, a tow truck from a local garage was sent to the scene, but it too was damaged trying to get the car down off the railing. A second tow truck had to be sent for before the crash scene could be cleared.

On another note, I noticed an historic marker while taking a picture of the bridge. It marks a Revolutionary war engagement from Sept.5, 1778, in which Lieutenant Jonathan Metcalf became the only American officer to lose his life in the British invasion of New Bedford. He was part of a Massachusetts State Artillery Company defending the area against invading British soldiers. This was part of the same campaign in which our Abraham Holmes of Rochester was involved. It just goes to show that you don't have to go far in our area to find connections to our colonial and revolutionary history.
