Marion Town House Mural Contest

By Sam Bishop

Renovation work on the Marion Town House is coming along as scheduled, with most construction set to be finished during the summer, and the Town House reopened sometime in August.

At the January 6 Select Board meeting, Town

On the cover: The Marion Town House renovation project, as approved by residents at last year's Spring Town Meeting, is on schedule and expected to finish in late-summer. The Town House was closed, and renovations began in September 2025, with work seeing the building become Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) compliant, addition of a fire-suppression system, HVAC installation, and an internal lift. Photo by Shawn Sweet Administrator Geoffrey Gorman gave an update on the status of the Town House. The current renovations were approved of by Marion residents at the Spring Town Meeting in May 2025, with work beginning in September and local government offices and functions moving to the Town House Annex at 14 Barnabas Road. The building will become Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) compliant, something long discussed within the town. Also in ADA compliance, there is to be a lift installed similar to the one in the new Maritime Center. The addition of fire-suppression and HVAC systems was also approved. Internal framing is largely completed, with Gorman telling The Wanderer, "We continue to move along the timeline with progress."

The Town Administrator, at the same Select Board meeting, presented an idea to town officials and the public: a mural in the Town House. As he was giving his presentation on the status of construction on building that celebrates its 150th birthday this year, Gorman stated all work was on schedule and the build would be finished by the end of summer. He then put forth an idea, now finalized, that was approved by the board at that meeting.

The town is inviting local artists to submit mural concepts that will later be installed on an interior wall within the Town House. The town is open to submissions starting next week, on Monday, January 19 with the contest open until April 2 by town office closure, 4:30 pm. The town's announcement states, "The mural will serve as a lasting symbol of community pride and creativity in the heart of Marion's civic center."

There are some stipulations with the allowed mural submissions: It is open to Marion residents aged 18 and older (individuals or teams), each artist may submit one original design concept, and designs must be appropriate for all audiences and must not contain political, commercial, or offensive content.

Starting Monday, artists should submit a digital rendering and concept statement with discussion on theme via email to the Town Administrator Geoffrey Gorman at: ggorman@marionma.gov.

Following the closure of the submission process, the Select Board will then review submissions and select finalists to be voted upon by town residents. In May, a community survey will take place to determine the winner. The timeline for the Town House Mural Contest, as presented by the town, is as follows:

Contest Launch: Monday, January 19

Submission Deadline: Thursday, April 2 by 4:30 pm

Select Board Review: April (Date to be announced)

Community Survey & Final Selection: May (Date to be announced)

Minor Earthquake Hits Mattapoisett By Sam Bishop

On the night of Wednesday, January 8, a magnitude 1.8 earthquake was felt by many of those in the Tri-Town, especially Mattapoisett. No damage was reported following the incident.

the Interior, the earthquake shook the ground a couple seconds after 9:11 pm. The USGS actually estimates the epicenter of the quake was just over the line in Acushnet (41.672°N, 70.869°W), though the closest center of population was Mattapoisett.

The quake luckily wasn't powerful enough to do real damage but was still enough to rattle around some household objects and wake up those that were asleep. Even though it wasn't too mighty, it was still clocked by many around the South Coast, with even some saying they felt tremors in Spencer, MA, about 70 miles away. The closest major station that monitors seismic activity in the area is the Adam Dziewonski Observatory in Harvard, MA.

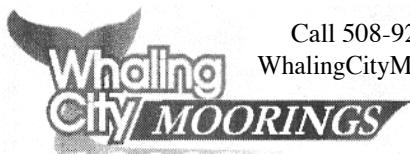

A few hours before, there was a slightly more powerful magnitude 1.9 quake near East Haddam in central Connecticut, about 85 miles west of Mattapoisett.

Earthquakes of this nature hitting New England are rare but not all that unlikely. The last major earthquake recorded in Massachusetts was the Cape Ann Earthquake of November 18, 1755. It was a magnitude 5.8~ (measuring accurately wasn't entirely possible yet) and there is still much speculation as to its origin, with some claiming it to be a ripple effect from another earthquake in Portugal.

We sit nowhere near a plate's fault line; thus, the nature of these quakes is different from those of the Ring of Fire around the Pacific or the eastern Indian Ocean. Most likely, according to geologists, these minor New England quakes are caused either by the settling of the crust after the formation of the Appalachian Mountains or by "post-glacial rebound," or the land still rising from the removal of the weight of Ice Age-era glaciers a few millennia ago.

The Release of Common Sense This Week in Revolutionary War History By Sam Bishop

This week in Revolutionary War history, let's check up on what was going on 250 years ago in and around the colonial Province of Massachusetts Bay. Last week, Americans are crushed outside Quebec City, ensuring Canadian independence and sovereignty. General Richard Montgomery was killed, Major General Benedict Arnold is severely injured, 50 Americans are killed and another 400 captured for no British fatalities. At this time, Colonel Henry Knox march east has been halted due to changing weather and thawing rivers.

writes to Governor Jonathan Trumbull, at first thanking the governor for his help and loyalty, he then makes a tactical assessment that foreshadows battles to come. Through his extensive spy network throughout Boston, Washington has uncovered the British are outfitting ships in Boston Harbor for combat, and embarking troops out to sea. He says, "from the season of the year and other circumstances, [the ships] must be destined for some expedition south of this; and having such information as I can depend upon, -if not immediately designed against the City of New-York is nevertheless intended for Long Island; and as it is a matter of the utmost importance to prevent the enemy from possessing themselves of the city of New York."

While jumping the gun a bit, Washington's assessment would seem prophetic, as The Battle of Long Island is about 8 months away from this point, correctly judging the inclination of the British to attempt to capture New York. On January 8, Washington would order Major General Charles Lee to New York City to bolster defenses.

On January 10, a 47-page pamphlet is published in Philadelphia. Thomas Paine's Common Sense would ultimately call for the full separation of Great Britain and the "Inhabitants of America." It also notably pushes ideas of more equal governance, enshrining the ideas of democracies in the colonies. In its first three months of publication, the booklet would sell 120,000 copies. By the end of the Revolutionary War, it would sell 500,000, with the total population of the United States being around 2.5 million. Proportional to population, that makes it the most bought and circulated American publication being read by 20% of them.

Paine was born in Norfolk, England and would emigrate to Philadelphia in late 1774. After a turbulent journey and a long recovery, he began the publication of the Pennsylvania Magazine and began the release of regular political writings. After only about a year in the area, he would spark a huge flame. The pamphlet was quickly circulated around, through taverns and local squares, boosting Continental Army recruitment dramatically just after many contracts had ended on January 1.

Paine would write, "For all men being originally equals, no one by birth could have the right to set up his own family in perpetual preference to all others forever." He pushed egalitarian ideas, being a true student of the Enlightenment. Not knowing how fervently his message would spread, he also put down, "A long habit of not thinking a thing wrong, gives it a superficial appearance of being right, and raises at first a formidable outcry in defense of custom. But the tumult soon subsides. Time makes more converts than reason." He pushed for the use of one's "common sense" to strive for liberty and equality at a time of increased absolutism.

On January 13, not yet having read Common Sense nor anything from Quebec, Washington tragically writes to General Montgomery, not knowing he was killed nearly two weeks prior. He says, "our hopes that you will get possession of Quebec, if not already in your hands - I must beg therefore your attention to the wants of the Army here." Washington would note the needs of the army around Cambridge while, again, not yet knowing the man he writes to is dead and nor his commanding army was functionally dispersed across the frigid north.

steatotic liver disease – or fatty liver to be brief.

Most of us know that heavy alcohol use is bad for your liver, and years ago, most patients with cirrhosis (advanced liver damage with scarring and loss of function) were alcoholics.

In 2026, with the world-wide epidemic of overweight and obesity, MASLD has become the commonest cause of liver disease that can progress to cirrhosis. Up to 38% of adults have this! If you have Type 2 diabetes, that rises to 65%!

The first stage is fatty infiltration of the liver. If nothing is done, scarring and replacement of functioning liver tissue with fibrous (scar) tissue can follow. Eventually the liver loses much of its function, and the complications of a scarred non-functional liver ensue. These include jaundice, swelling of the legs and abdomen and bleeding.

Untreated MASLD is also the number one cause of liver cancer.

How can you prevent this cascade of catastrophes?

First, if you fit the risk profile (diabetic, overweight and/or high triglycerides), ask your doctor to check your liver. While most doctors know they should check your eyes if you have diabetes, many do not think about the liver.

Standard "liver function tests" are not routinely done and are not always abnormal in early stages of MASLD. While elevated liver enzymes may offer the first clue to the problem, 20-25% of people with biopsy-proven fatty livers have normal liver blood tests.

A better test is the "FIB-4" value, which is calculated from your age, two simple liver enzyme tests and the count of your blood platelets. If this is abnormal, an ultrasound test should be done to look for any scarring.

The good news is that getting your lipids and blood sugar under control and losing weight will reliably reduce fat in the liver and prevent you from going on to worse liver disease.

The GLP-1 drug semaglutide (Wegovy) has been proven to improve MASLD and is FDA-approved for this use. Though not studied for this use, the other GLP-1 agents would probably be equally effective.

You cannot live without your liver, so look after it!

Thoughts about Green Thumbedness

The Seaside Gardener

By Laura McLean

You know you're really a gardener when:

- You cancel dates to watch "Gardeners' World."
- You retain plants' names better than people's.
- You're most comfortable in overalls and Wellies.
- You hear the elements of nature in Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony.

- Flattering comments about your garden are like a warm embrace.

- You delight in the rain.
- You like the smell of fresh earth and not-so-fresh manure.
- Your garden precedes your social life in importance.
- Smith and Hawken's attire is preferable to Victoria Secret's.
- Visits to garden centers stimulate a Pavlovian response.
- Mud on the kitchen floor doesn't faze you.

- Your early "playgrounds" were most likely woodlands, streams and fields.
- You have a tendency to anthropomorphize plants - that is, give them human qualities.
- Composting could easily become an obsession.
- You're not insulted when your beloved gives you an irrigation system for your birthday.
- Your idea of a fun date is going to a flower show/tour.
- Transcendental meditation is an hour in the garden.

Some or all of the above may describe you. I can vividly recall my earliest preoccupations with nature. The feeling I had in my great-grandmother's garden "rooms;" my first greenhouse sighting at the Roosevelt Mansion on the Hudson River; a preference for the outdoors, be it climbing trees or pondering the mysteries of the frog pond. Even simple things like noticing the changing vegetation as we headed to the Cape for summer vacation. I can't remember too much about the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, NY, but I can still picture the surrounding scenery bathed in the summer sun.

I have carried this love of the natural world within me never feeling burdened, although sometimes a bit apart from others. Like the time I remarked to fellow co-eds about the beauty of the White Mountains during a ski weekend in North Conway, NH. They had their sights set on other scenery, so I got some queer looks.

During the early 80s when the world was into computers and electronics, I feigned interest in writing on the subject and used the correct buzz words at trade shows. A subsequent job as a news reporter got me out of tiresome suits and stockings and into earthier subjects. I gravitated toward farmers and 4-H people and away from politicians and police.

In more recent years, I have devoted myself to gardening and found it a comfort when away from home. I had to wince when an acquaintance remarked that gardening was a temporary interest of new moms that would eventually wane. Oh yeah!!!? Come back in 30 years and eat those words.

So much for an explanation of what constitutes a gardener and how some of us are destined for it. Ever wonder why? Most people will say it's simply in their genes, but there may be more to it if you believe in the theory of multiple intelligences. The idea that some people are gifted in certain areas was proposed back in 1983 by Harvard University psychologist and educator Howard Gardner, Ph.D. It contends that we all possess distinct and somewhat autonomous intelligences in varying degrees and that each is of equal value. The nine intelligences, which some critics prefer to describe as talents, include linguistic; logical-mathematical; spatial; bodily kinesthetic; musical; interpersonal; intrapersonal; naturalist. and existential.

to recognize and classify the numerous species in one's environment. Those who possess it usually enjoy being outside; like to amass collections; show an instinctual fondness for animals; like to cook or garden; is inquisitive about the names of plants and has a good memory for them; and has an eye for detail, noticing how a newly encountered animal or plant is different from or similar to other such entities. People who seek careers as a biologist, nature illustrator, farmer, chef, gardener, or wild animal trainer are believed to have a strong naturalist intelligence.

So, the next time you're out golfing or driving along the highway to some destination - a ball game or a shopping mall or the airport - take note of the landscape in its natural or manmade state. It may bolster your own green giftedness a bit. Even if you are more the kinesthetic type.

Management.

The board met briefly to accept final edits to the updated Waterfront Management Plan that the Marine Advisory Board has been working on for many months. The board thanked the MAB for their work, which in no small part included the efforts of the MAB Chairman Carlos DeSousa.

A public hearing with Eversource representative Jessica Elder was held. The hearing was a request from the utility to install a new utility pole on Crystal Springs Road. Abutter David Lawrence of 32 Crystal Spring Road once again brought to the attention of Eversource the need for portable toilets at the construction site being discussed on this night. He stated that each time construction at this site resumed he had brought up the need for sanitary facilities. He said he lives next door to the site and will be vocal should this basic human need continue to be overlooked by the utility. Elder said she would contact the utility's construction division and pass along the request. The Select Board also added a condition to their approval requiring portable toilets.

The board also met with Roberta Gaspar, who is spearheading a 250th celebration for the town. She expressed that with only six volunteers it is difficult but proceeded to share fun and interesting activities that the small but mighty group has been working on. Such activities may include tours of historic locations throughout the town, a community picnic at Neds Point, a field of flags at Dunseith Park, and possibly a bonfire.

If you are interested in helping the town organize the event, contact the Select Board office.

The next meeting of the Mattapoisett Select Board will be held on January 27.

Rochester Zoning Board of Appeals

By Michael J. DeCicco

The Rochester Zoning Board of Appeals began the new year with two easily decided approvals. On January 8, the board granted a variance to permit an attached garage over 1,000 square feet on the 4-acre lot at 522 Walnut Plain Road. Applicant and property owner Karl Ferreira said he needs a 2,400-square-foot garage to store and work on his large truck, several farm tractors and excavator. A smaller-sized garage would not fit all the equipment he owns.

Agreeing with this reasoning, ZBA Chair Donald Spirlet said Ferreira has a big piece of property. Thus, the larger size of the garage will not be detrimental to the neighborhood. In fact, the garage would improve the neighborhood because this equipment would no longer be stored outside, he said. Board member Doug Sims noted in the variance language he motioned that the standard-size garage would be a hardship as it would not provide effective storage for what Ferreira owns. The garage that was approved will be a 40x60 foot, steel-frame structure on a concrete slab.

The Zoning Board of Appeals then approved a Special Permit to allow the construction of a two-family residence at 309 Neck Road. The plan here is to build a new two-story home on 2.65 acres and demolish the single-family home, built in 1971, that sits there now.

Applicant Jennifer Jones described what is being planned as a tri-level home. The first floor will be for her parents, she said. The second floor will be for her, as their caretaker, and her young daughter. The property has been owned by the family for over 50 years and three generations, she noted. This will keep the home in the family for years to come. She admitted she already has a foundation permit and has built that foundation.

Abutter Rick Charon endorsed the plan, saying he was speaking as a neighbor of the address for 47 years rather than the project's engineer. "I am speaking highly in favor of this plan," he said. Charon noted he has made a similar plan to move his daughter and eight-year-old granddaughter to live with him, and it's part of popular trend. "It's what people with families are doing nowadays," he said.

Board members echoed this theme, as it voted its approval. "It's so close to what is permitted now by right," board member Richard Cutler said. "The intent is a beautiful thing," Spirlet said. And it's close to meeting frontage requirements, Spirlet added.

The Special Permit includes the condition that the current residential structure be demolished within a year after the certificate of occupancy for the new home is issued.

The Rochester Zoning Board of Appeals did not set a date for its next meeting before adjourning.

FY27 Budget Planning

Marion Finance Committee

By Jeffrey D. Wagner

The Marion Finance Committee, at the January 7 meeting in the Town House Annex, planned out a schedule for review of the Fiscal 2027 budget.

Finance Director Heather O'Brien noted that many department-drafted budgets, including the school budget, have been received. She expressed optimism that by this week she will have received all drafts. She also said that she will have completed initial meetings with department heads by mid-January.

Finance Committee Chair Sean Healy said that the Finance Committee will meet with department heads between February 2 and March 18. Committee members went over their individual schedules to determine which dates would work.

Some committee members asked if the committee would have time to review and vote on non-departmental money items that will appear on the annual Town Meeting warrant in the spring.

Healy said that the Finance Committee has been

Funding Pending for Water Street Culvert

Mattapoisett Conservation Commission

By Marilou Newell

The January 12 meeting of the Mattapoisett

Conservation Commission was a full evening of Notice of Intent filings and Request for Determination of Applicability's (RDA's), not the least of which was a filing by the town for repairs needed to the Water Street culvert. The aged culvert suffered a final blow when the interior collapsed causing temporary road closure approximately 18 months ago.

Town Administrator Mike Lorento confirmed that design of a new and improved waterway passage from the north to the south side of the village has been underway with the engineering firm Greenman-Pedersen, Inc. Representatives from the firm met with the commissioners to answer any remaining questions they might have prior to issuing an order of conditions for the Notice of Intent previously submitted.

Several state agencies were involved in reviewing designs offered by Greenman-Pedersen. One such agency was the Massachusetts Environmental Policy Act Office. MEPA reviews environmental impacts of development projects and other activities that require one or more agency actions. While a tentative start date for the repair work is September, funding the project has yet to be solidified.

Lorento said, "We intend to use grant funding and other sources - we want to keep as much as possible off the taxpayers." He said the estimated cost hovers around $2,000,000.

A Notice of Intent filed by 0 Nashawena Road, owned by Deborah Chapman Living Trust was conditioned after lengthy discussion concluded with abutters and others in the neighborhood aired their concerns regarding storm water runoff and associated weather-related flooding.

Represented by David Davignon of Schneider Davignon and Leone, Davignon explained in detail measures taken in the design to handle road runoff and the use of swales to assist in the management of storm water. After much discussion the filing was closed, an order of conditions was issued.

A Notice of Intent filed by NEPO Realty LLC for properties located on Ned's Point Road were continued allowing time for further drainage study.

An RDA filed by Dennis Mahoney and Sons for property located at 0 Aucoot Road was continued. The filing is for the clearing for a private driveway onto property that will be used as a nursery. At issue are concerns expressed by the Highway Surveyor Garrett Bauer regarding the use of Bowman Road for heavy truck traffic anticipated resulting in Bowman Road suffering damage.

Bauer said he would prefer to see Aucoot Road used to access the property in question versus Bowman Road. The filing was continued to the next meeting to give all parties time for further review.

The next meeting of the Mattapoisett Conservation Commission is scheduled for Monday, January 26.

Solar Project Approved

Rochester Planning Board

By Michael J. DeCicco

Rochester's Planning Board began its meeting Tuesday by putting the finishing touches on its approval of the massive Logging Swamp Solar project off of 600 Snipatuit Road.

The board endorsed the developer's Approval Not Required application to permit the creation of four house lots within the 35-acre project. Chair Arnold Johnson said the plan had a flaw. There was inadequate frontage for at least one of the lots. Project representative Greg Sampson successfully argued there are adequate 40-foot setbacks on the plan. He added he was unsure of detailed plans for these lots. He noted simply that the property owner has asked him to create these lots.

The panel then approved the project's draft decision, the final hurdle to allowing the solar array to be built after months of hearings that debated plan details and addressed neighbors' concerns. The plan covers 35 acres of a 2,000-acre wooded property bordered on one side by Northern Avenue and surrounded by a 350-acre swamp.

Next, the board came close to approving the Definitive Subdivision plan for 19 County Road, West Wareham, a proposal to divide an 8.67-acre parcel into three lots. The board voted in favor of the permit waivers in the draft decision but also continued the hearing to its January 27 meeting and the decision deadline to February 14. Johnson urged the project's representatives to have the appropriate surety bond, $760,000, in place by then.

The Site Plan Review application for a project closer to home was also continued to January 27. This is a plan to clear land behind town hall and re-grade it with a 12-inch gravel base and stone surface for an 8,220 square-foot parking area and 10-foot-wide mulched border.

Project consultant Rick Charon said the goal is to add 18 parking spaces to the Town Hall lot and correct the drainage system that pools storm water in front of Town Hall. Town Administrator Cameron Durant acknowledged that the land behind town hall has already been cleared. He did not know the project needed a Site Plan Review approval, until now.

Johnson instructed Charon to return with a more detailed plan of the drainage plan, specifically a cross-section of where the new water flow will go.

In other action, the board continued to February 10 its hearing into a modification of the "Snuptauit Ponds Estates" Definitive Subdivision Plan for Gerrish and Bishop Roads and the decision deadline to March 16. The board scheduled a site visit to the Rochester Memorial School Solar Canopy project for January 19 at 8:00 am. Johnson noted the panels are already being installed.

The Rochester Planning Board's next meeting will be Tuesday, January 27 at 7:00 pm at Town Hall, 1 Constitution Way.

Home Approved, Despite Neighborhood Concerns

Marion Zoning Board of Appeals

By Jeffrey D. Wagner

The Marion Zoning Board of Appeals and residents within the Briggs Terrace area had many questions and concerns about an applicant's bid to subdivide a lot with two structures on the lot.

In the end, the ZBA on January 8 in the Marion Police Station conference room still approved applicants Dina and William Quinlan's variance to raze a shed and build a one-story, three-bedroom home in its place.

The applicants' engineer noted that state law allows such subdivision plans, but the plans do not conform to a town bylaw dictating a minimum lot requirement. The Planning Board had approved plans, but neighbors had concerns about property values declining with a more clustered look to the area. One neighbor said the proposed additional home would be 30 feet from his property.

ZBA Chair Cynthia Callow expressed concern that this plan would set a precedent. She and one neighbor said residents could decide to tear down a chicken coup and build a home in its place. Applicant representatives said that not building the home could represent a financial hardship for the residents, who would have more flexibility with building a second home that they could sell.

Both the applicants and board member Robert Grillo said that if the applicant chose to make this home an accessory dwelling unit (ADU), there would be no need for a variance from the ZBA. "In this case, they are asking for a variance even though there is no dwelling there. They would like to put a dwelling there. There is not much of a difference than having a house there and rebuilding it," Grillo said.

An ADU, however, would tie both homes together and the applicants could not have the same financial flexibility.

Some neighbors questioned if the second home would strain the sewer line, but the applicant and Grillo said that both homes would be connected to the same line.

The applicants also stressed that the home would not conflict with the overall appearance of the neighborhood.

Citing that and the possible financial hardship, the ZBA on a unanimous 4-0 vote approved the variance for the project to move forward.

The next meeting of the Marion Zoning Board of Appeals is scheduled for Thursday, January 22.

Grassi Bog Maintenance

*Marion Open Space Acquisition Commission
By Jeffrey D. Wagner*

The Grassi Bog Conservation Area is a popular spot, but it's riddled with potholes and people who use it to socialize during night hours, according to Open Space Acquisition Commission members at their January 8 Zoom meeting.

OSAC members are looking to find donated posts to rebuild the gate to close the parking lot after hours. OSAC members learned that there are no Community Preservation Act funds for fixing the potholes, but members are asking the Department of Public Works for help with filling the potholes.

frequently walk the trails there. They reported broken beer bottles there, out-of-town residents in pick-up trucks, and hunters who frequent the area. "There is a lot going on in the off-hours when we are not down there," Sands said. "Quite a bit of activity down there."

OSAC member John Friedman says he knows someone who can donate pressure treated wood to help refasten a gate that once was there to close the area after daytime hours. Chairman John Rockwell said a dock owner once donated posts, but they were stolen. He said the gates are still in the town's possession.

The OSAC also approved some small routine items but talked at length about hiring an engineer to fill gaps within the gravel-surface Point Road walking and biking path. Neighbors in the area who frequent the path note that the area is not wheelchair or stroller accessible, limiting the access for some people. Rockwell also said that the project once had an in-house engineer to maintain the path, including submission of a stormwater management report to the Conservation Commission. He said since 2019, when first approved, OSAC no longer has an in-house engineer to maintain the gaps in the path or complete the stormwater maintenance reports.

Select Board member Norm Hills expressed frustration over the issue. "We keep putting stuff on to stuff and we are not accomplishing anything. We are just wasting money," Hills said, while also that the project originally was supposed to rely on donated funds and materials and has strayed away from that goal.

Hills said only the Select Board can accept donations for town projects and he is not aware of donations recently for the Point Road path.

OSAC gave Rockwell the green light to seek engineering funding from the CPA to remedy both issues.

The next Marion Open Space Acquisition Commission meeting was not scheduled at adjournment.

OBITUARIES

Lynne F. Chase, 79, of Mattapoisett passed away on Monday, January 5, 2026, after a long, courageous battle with health issues. Her beloved husband of 51 years Russell "Chippy" Chase, Junior was at her side. Lynne grew up in Spencer, Iowa, the daughter of the late Carole Lane Fisher and James Earl Fisher. She graduated from the College of St. Scholastica in Duluth, Minnesota. After college Lynne moved to Mattapoisett and began teaching kindergarten at the Potter School in Dartmouth and later worked for several years at Liberty Travel.

Lynne was a friend to many and had many friends. She enjoyed her time playing mahjong, daily walks, and dining out. She was an avid reader. In summer she especially enjoyed take-out fish and chip dinners at Neds Point Lighthouse, eating ice cream at the town wharf, and having guests for cookouts on her patio by the pool. She enjoyed watching and tending the birds that frequented her many feeders. In winter Lynne and Chippy frequently traveled to Sugarloaf Ski Resort and nearby Sunday River in Maine. She felt her time assisting Seniors at the Sippican Health Center in Marion especially rewarding.

Lynne leaves behind two daughters, Amy Chase and her husband Tracy Lane Bradfield of Albuquerque, New Mexico, and Sarah Rothschild, her husband Andrew, and her beloved granddaughter Cameron of Richmond, Virginia; a sister Marty Fisher-Blakeley of Eau-Claire, WI, a brother William Lane Fisher and his wife Mary of Merrill, WI and nephews James Fisher of Panama City, FL, Jonathan Fisher of Merrill, WI and Matthew Fisher-Blakeley of Eau-Claire, WI and their families.

In lieu of flowers donations may be made to the Mattapoisett Free Public Library.

Her memorial visitation will be held Friday, January 16, 2026 from 4-6 pm in the Saunders-Dwyer Mattapoisett Home for Funerals, 50 County Rd., Mattapoisett. For online guestbook, please visit www.saundersdwyer.com

Roger Converse Gibbons, 61, died at his home in Mattapoisett on January 8, 2026.

He was the son of the late John D. Gibbons and Vera Converse Gibbons.

Roger graduated from Avon Old Farms, Rollins College, and the London School of Economics.

He was a licensed real estate broker and real estate developer.

Roger was an unassuming athlete who excelled in most sports, especially tennis.

He covetted time with his family and was always interested - and up to date - on what everyone was up to. A gentle soul with a big heart, Roger never forgot birthdays, graduations or other important occasions. He kept everyone laughing with his sharp sense of humor, spot-on impersonations, and one-liners.

Roger is survived by his brother, John D. Gibbons, Jr. of Westfield NJ (Colleen); and his three sisters, Tina Roberts of Palm Beach, Florida (Joel); Joanella Cannell of Mattapoisett (Jim); and Vera B. Gibbons of Palm Beach, Florida.

Other family members include 8 nieces and nephews, and five great nieces and nephews.

Burial services were private. A Celebration of Life will be held later this year when the weather is warm.

Arrangements are with the Saunders-Dwyer Mattapoisett Home for Funerals, 50 County Rd. (Rt. 6), Mattapoisett. For online guestbook, visit www.saundersdwyer.com.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the Mattapoisett Police Department, 64 County Road, Mattapoisett, MA 02739.

Donald Soren Bjerre, 82, passed away peacefully on December 25, 2025, at his home in Mattapoisett, MA. He was the loving husband of the late Mary Alice (Maccini) Bjerre.

He is survived by his son and daughter-in-law, Erik and Sonia Bjerre, and their children, Claire and James, of Fall River, MA; and his daughter, Krista-Lee Bjerre, and her partner, Tobias Olsen, of Waterford, CT. In addition to his wife Mary Alice, Don is predeceased by his sister, the late Ruth Marie Bjerre.

Don hailed from Boston, MA, and his love of boats was evident from an early age. Following four years in the U.S. Navy, he went to work for the Polaroid Corporation in Waltham, MA. An opportunity at the New Bedford Industrial Park in 1973 led to Don moving his family from Nashua, NH to Mattapoisett, MA, where he lived the rest of his life. He loved Mattapoisett, and often remarked how fortunate he felt to live there.

For more than 30 years, Don worked as a draftsman for Polaroid, where he forged many lifelong friendships. He later consulted for Hart Engineering in Boston, which he thoroughly enjoyed.

In an age that preceded the widespread use of computers, when drafting tables and mechanical pencils were still the order of the day, Don was renowned for his meticulous nature and exacting detail: if he said that a complex piping system would fit inside a given space, it absolutely would -- often to the dumbfounded awe of co-workers.

Don enjoyed many hobbies, including trap shooting, fishing, and biking. He was an expert at ropework, and his skills were always prominently displayed. But his favorite hobby, by far, was boating: some of his fondest memories were of time spent with his family and friends on excursions to the Elizabeth Islands and Martha's Vineyard.

OBITUARIES

Even when he was no longer able to meet the physical demands of boating, Don would still drive to the town pier at least once a day, so he could, in his words, "make sure that it's still there."

In Don's final years, the most important things were his faith, his family, and his friends. He began each day reading Bible passages, and he attended weekly service at the Mattapoisett Congregational Church. He looked forward to his Tuesday morning breakfasts with friends from Polaroid, saying that they were always sure to tip well because they would often sit at the table and talk for hours after they'd finished eating.

Don loved the people in his life -- more than he may have felt comfortable expressing. If you were a part of his life, in any way, please know that he appreciated every kind gesture, every warm word, every phone call, and every card. He loved his life, and he was thankful.

His memorial visitation will be held on Tuesday January 20th from 4-8 pm at the Saunders-Dwyer Mattapoisett Home for Funerals, 50 County Rd., Route 6, Mattapoisett. His graveside service will be held on Wednesday January 21st at 9:45 am at the Massachusetts National Cemetery in Bourne. In lieu of flowers, donations in Don's memory may be made to the Shriners Hospital for Children, 51 Blossom St., Boston, MA 02114.

After-school Programs at the MNHM

The Marion Natural History Museum will host The Great Backyard Bird Count on February 4 from 3:30 pm to 4:30 pm. The Great Backyard Bird Count (GBBC) is a free, fun, and easy event that engages bird watchers of all ages in counting birds to create a real-time snapshot of bird populations. Participants are asked to count birds for as little as 15 minutes (or as long as they wish) on one or more days of the four-day event and report their sightings online at birdcount.org. Anyone can take part in the Great Backyard Bird Count, from beginning bird watchers to experts, and you can participate from your backyard, or anywhere in the world.

With the help of Nasketucket and Brookline Bird Club member Carol Molander we will be learning how to identify some of our more common bird species, taking a walk into the woods to see what we can find and then learning a little more about this important event. Warm hats, gloves and boots are highly recommended for our excursion.

The next program scheduled is Owl Diet Detective on February 25 from 3:30 pm to 4:30 pm. Join us for an exciting exploration into the world of owls and their unique eating habits. Unlike other birds, owls swallow their prey whole because they lack teeth for chewing. Our Owl Pellet Dissection program provides a fascinating insight into these nocturnal predators. Recommended for grades 2-6.

What you'll discover: Owl Dining Secrets: Learn how owls consume mice, voles, small birds, and more.

Pellet Examination: Delve into regurgitated pellets, consisting of bones, teeth, fur, and feathers. Scientific Investigation: By dissecting the pellets, we unveil the diverse diet of owls and the frequency of different prey. Each pellet is dry heat sterilized. Gloves and dissection tools are provided to ensure a safe and hygienic experience.

Get ready to become a junior ornithologist and uncover the mysteries hidden within owl pellets.

To register for these programs and others please go to the Marion Natural History Museum's website: www.marionmuseum.org.

MOVIE REVIEW

Deadtime for Bonzo

By Rob Gonsalves
www.robsmovievault.com

Primate. Starring Johnny Sequoyah and Troy Kotsur. Directed by Johannes Roberts. Running time: 89 minutes. MPAA rating: R. Now playing in theaters.

Since winning the Best Supporting Actor Oscar for playing the patriarch of the mostly-deaf family in CODA, Troy Kotsur hasn't been around much in movies (he's kept his hand in on TV). This month, though, brings him back in two features. The second to be released here, on the 23rd, will be the Canadian thriller In Cold Light, and then there's Primate, which just opened at #2 this past weekend. It's good to see Kotsur again, so I hope In Cold Light is better than Primate, a gory and basic horror movie — essentially a slasher movie with a rabid chimp as the slasher.

The chimp, named Ben, is a combo of actual chimp performance, animatronics, and latex. Sometimes he looks pretty fake, which may be a relief for those concerned about using live chimps in many violent scenes. (The ominous opening number of Jordan Peele's Nope demonstrated why most productions don't lean heavily on monkey actors.) Primate is best described as a hard-R splatter movie, with Ben drooling and screeching as he rips faces and jaws off or beats people to death.

People have been testifying to how "fun" it all is, but I found it repulsive and unpleasant, especially in Ben's rare lucid moments when he seems to snap out of his murderous haze and express sadness and regret to the family that loved him. Then it's back to more stalking and blood. Maybe I'm getting too old for this sort of stuff, or maybe the real-life murder video I and the rest of the world saw this week dampened my taste for death for the foreseeable future. That video and its implications are more terrifying than anything in Primate, though I can understand moviegoers wanting to be transported by a predictable creature feature with fairly unreal brutality.

Kotsur more or less has the second lead as Adam, a famous author who owns Ben and lives in a remote cliffside home in Hawaii, where, he says, there's no rabies — so the dead mongoose found in Ben's enclosure on Adam's property, which tests positive for rabies and has bitten Ben, would seem to be a plot hole. The movie doesn't get into how mongooses, an invasive species, could potentially carry rabies; the authority on such matters would have been Adam's deceased primatologist wife, also mother to Adam's two daughters (Johnny Sequoyah and Gia Hunter).

The daughters take advantage of Adam's being away at a book signing to have a girls' party at the elaborate family house, with the older daughter's two college-age friends rounding out the group. Two frat bros show up at the house later, too, mostly to be fed to Ben. Weirdly for this sort of movie, one of these bros gets the movie's most dread-ridden death, with a lot of emphasis on the guy's fear and straining to get out of the situation. A ghastly sight gag involving Ben playing with one of the dude's body parts almost made me think the director, Johannes Roberts, has some morbid wit going for him; it reminded me, of all things, of a disturbing scene with dentures in Larry Clark's Ken Park.

But that makes Primate sound artsier than it is or intends to be. Its true forefather is not Larry Clark but Stephen King, whose rabid-dog thriller Cujo stood more or less alone in the sub-subgenre of horror about hydrophobic animals until now. Usually animal-attack thrillers are premised on man-made goofs that drive the critters mad, like electric lines or environmental depredations. The king of them all, of course, furnished no cause or reason whatsoever for its great white shark deciding to put down roots off Amity Island and chow down. Here, as in Cujo, the killer, who comes across as friendly though a little off pre-carnage, can't help it. So the movie, for me, also became depressing. Ben deserved to grow old surrounded by a doting family. Instead he goes out like a soulless psycho in any '90s Hollywood thriller. Primate is not my idea of "fun."

SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Events could inspire adventurous Lambs who are looking to make a major career or personal move. But as always, get all the facts before rushing into any sort of deal or commitment.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) What seems to be a great opportunity could cause even usually practical Taureans to ignore their inner caution cues. Best to move carefully to avoid falling into unseen traps.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Need a holiday now that the seasonal festivities are behind you? Good idea! Plan to go to someplace wonderful. You'll return refreshed and more than ready for a new challenge.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Progress continues to be made on that pesky workplace problem. Meanwhile, don't assume that a personal situation will work itself out. Best to get more involved earlier rather than later.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Catnaps are definitely recommended for LEOs and LEOnas who had been going at a hectic pace over the holidays. Adding relaxation time to your schedule helps restore your overdrawn energy reserves.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Sure, some of the new friends you made during the holidays might move out of your life at some point. But at least one might show significant "staying power" with some encouragement.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Encourage family members to join you in supporting a relative who could be facing a difficult emotional challenge in the New Year. Showing your love and concern helps keep this person's hopes up.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) While a long-deferred decision might suddenly take on some urgency after news on a related matter, you still need to weigh all the factors carefully before deciding one way or the other.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) This is a good time to reassess the earlier plan you made for the New Year. Some elements you felt you could depend on to make it work might no longer carry this assurance.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Forming a renewed connection with a former associate is only the first step toward working out your new plans. Be prepared for problems and deal with them as soon as they arise.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A romantic situation that was going smoothly not too long ago might take a new turn. Be honest about your feelings before you decide whether to follow it or take another path.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) The wise PISCES (that's you, of course) will make sure that everyone knows your plan to keep your options open and will listen to all sides of the situation before making any decisions.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your honest approach to life and living is always an inspiration for others who are fortunate enough to know you.

Beavers - More than Soft Fur and Flat Tails

Join the Marion Natural History Museum on January 30 at 6:00 pm when we welcome Wildlife Biologist Steven Wright of Massachusetts Fisheries and Wildlife to learn about these fascinating animals.

American Indians called the beaver the "sacred center" of the land because this species creates such rich, watery habitat for other mammals, fish, turtles, frogs, birds and ducks. We now know that beaver damming provides essential natural services for people too.

Beavers prefer to dam streams in shallow valleys, where the flooded area becomes productive wetlands. These cradles of life support biodiversity that rivals tropical rain forests. Almost half of endangered and threatened species in North America rely upon wetlands. Freshwater wetlands have been rated as the world's most valuable land-based ecosystem.

Beavers reliably and economically maintain wetlands that sponge up floodwater, alleviate droughts and floods (because their dams keep water on the land longer), lesson erosion, raise the water table and act as the "earth's kidneys" to purify water.

Please register for this fascinating program about one of our most ambitious mammals at www.marionmuseum.org.

Five unforgettable concerts. One intention: to leave you changed.

Winter Fire - January 31 and February 1: Melt the midwinter chill with fiery string quartets and Mendelssohn's soaring piano trio. Music to spark your spirit.

Story Time - March 28 and March 29: Let every note tell a tale. From Appalachian traditions to Middle Eastern laments, these works bring global stories to your ears - and your heart.

Foursomes - May 2 and May 3: Four voices. Infinite emotion. This season finale delivers serenity and storm alike, with music by Brahms, Roustom, and more.

Concerts take place Saturdays at 3:00 pm at St. Gabriel's Episcopal Church in Marion and Sundays at 3:00 pm at St. Peter's Episcopal Church in South Dartmouth. Tickets: Individual concerts: $35 (advanced purchase required), Season subscription: $140 for all five concerts (save 20%). Available through October 3).

To reserve your seat and find your moment of stillness, visit nbsymphony.org or call 508-999-6276 ext. 222.

The South Coast Chamber Music Series (SCCMS) was formed to present superior chamber music for the communities of Southeastern Massachusetts. SCCMS held its first subscription series concert on October 20, 2001. Since then, we have performed composers from Bach, Brahms, and Ravel to present-day masters Takemitsu and Piston. Each program presents an engaging array of styles, timbres, and artists in lively acoustic environments in Marion and South Dartmouth. We joined forces with the NBSO in 2014, giving both organizations an opportunity to expand in all directions - more concerts, more musicians, and more music - and are thrilled to connect with our loyal and growing audience.
